Travers and Shaw In Close Race In County

BOLINGER AND WALTON NAMED AS COMMISSIONERS IN COUNTY WIDE ELECTION

Wimer Wins For County Treasurer—Edgar Re-elected As Prothonotary—Travers And Shaw Wage Hot Battle For Democratic Place As County Commissioner

Sweeping through the county like a tornado the Republican ticket carried every one of its candidates to victory on Tuesday, with the majority averaging about two to one for each of the Republican candidates. From the early evening returns kept increasing the Republican majority and with 52 precincts out of the 100 in the city and county repored the leads are commanding ones.

George H. Bolinger, at present a county commissioner and his running mate William R. Walton were elected with votes of 7238 and 7071 respectively in the fifty two precincts reported at press time. The fight for the Democratic place is neck and neck and account of it will be found in other columns.

Other Candidates

In the race for Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar, the incumbent had no opposition, his Democratic opponent John L. Holsinger having died after the ballots were printed. Despite this fact Mr. Holsinger's name has 2174 votes as against 6508 for Mr. Edgar.

In the county treasurer race Earl R. Wimer, former city controller defeated V. I. Mandich without difficulty, and in the 52 precincts reported Mr. Wimer has 6919 votes and Mr. Mandich the present county treasurer 3716.

For county controller Frank W. Hill the incumbent polled 6687 votes as against 2856 for Jasper F. Myers his Democratic opponent.

For coroner Dr. T. F. Nugent went along with the other Republican winners and piled up 6550 votes to 3710 for Charles Piper Byers, present incumbent.

State Troopers In Pittsburgh For Election

(International News Service)

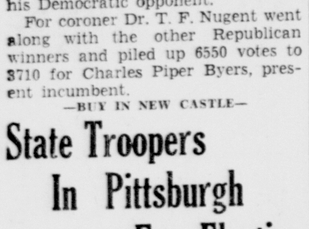

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7.—Fearful that sheriff's deputies qualified to act at the polls may not be sufficient, 30 state troopers today stood guard while citizens of Allegheny county voted to decide which major party will control the county government for the next four years.

A call for assistance was issued to troopers by Sheriff John Heinz. Thus far only one disturbance has marked the "rather heavy" balloting in this area.

Conditions at the polling places were reported quiet, and the voting was being done rapidly, indicating a considerable number of straight party ballots.

Oh see the pretty ballots and listen to them drop and every one means win or lose, each one is go or stop. Each one says who the voter would like to see come through, and at the same time it will mean some other chap is blue. But down they fall and flitter into a padlocked box, each one a bullet in the fray, each one a piece of rock, for out of rocks of this kind, the government is made, its forty two at noon today, and a light vote I'm afraid.

Late Returns Give Travers Lead Over Shaw

JOS. F. TRAVERS

At five o'clock this morning it was definitely established that Joseph F. Travers had won the Democratic place on the board of County Commissioners, defeating John B. Shaw, county chairman of the Democratic party. With 92 precincts of the county's 100 reported, Mr. Travers had 8,939 votes and Mr. Shaw 8,263.

This race was the only one which was close in the entire election. All night long the two ran neck-and-neck, with the lead see-sawing between them.

About five o'clock several city precincts reported with heavy majorities for Mr. Travers and he established a lead that Mr. Shaw cannot overcome.

During the Democratic regime Mr. Travers was the chief mechanic of the State Highway Department in this county, working under Mr. Shaw, who was the superintendent. Travers will be the only New Castle citizen on the board of County Commissioners.

Expect Municipal Election To Draw Big Vote In That City

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Climaxing one of the bitterest municipal elections of the current century, the electorate went to the city's 1,300 polling places today to determine by their ballots whether the Republican or Democratic-fusion candidates should manage Philadelphia for the next four years.

The far-famed G. O. MAYNE ELECTED MAYOR BY LARGE MAJORITY BY VOTERS OF CITY TUESDAY

CHARLES B. MAYNE

Elected as Mayor of New Castle by Overwhelming Majority in Election Tuesday

Fink And Davies Win Places on City Council—McKibben Is Easy Winner For City Treasurer—Preston, Thomas And Shira Are Named To School Board

New Castle returned to the Republican fold in a most convincing fashion on Tuesday in the election. It was more than convincing; it was downright devastating, for contrasted to a Democratic majority of 300 in the city last November, the complete returns for Tuesday's election will show Republican majorities ranging as high as 6,000 in the Mayor fight to about 3,500 in the City Council fight.

Charles B. Mayne, former mayor, who was the Republican candidate on Tuesday, ran like the proverbial steer in a corn field. With 24 of the city's 42 precincts reported, the Mayor-elect has 6,519 votes as against 2,100 for Dominick Cioffi, his Democratic opponent. Richard R. Lewis, running as an independent candidate, got 152 votes in the 24 precincts.

Heavy Vote Throughout

Mayor-elect Mayne's vote was universally heavy save in the fifth and eighth wards. The second, third and fourth wards gave him back-breaking majorities, in some precincts his vote running ten to one against Cioffi. Cioff's home ward, the eighth, gave him a handsome vote, but it was not sufficient to offset the other wards.

In City Council the majorities for the Republican candidates were overwhelming, but not as large as Mayne's. In 21 precincts reported, D. O. Davies received 4,571 votes and J. Leon Fink 4,301 votes. They ran clos together throughout, and there was evidence of a heavy straight ticket vote. In the Democratic ranks, J. Myron Rice, at present a councilman, got 2,888 votes in the 21 precincts and his running mate, Adam Pszenny, got 2,856. Pszenny's home ward, the eighth, gave him a tremendous vote, a compliment to a neighbor.

Voters Flocked To Polls During Late Afternoon

Good Vote Is Polled In City And County On Tuesday

It couldn't have been lethargy upon the part of the voters that made the campaign finished with the election so quiet. Apparently it was a quiet determination that needed no speeches or red fire for the vote was unusually heavy for an off-year election.

Early in the day the voting was light but this apparently was because most people waited until after they were through work to cast their ballots.

From four o'clock until eight o'clock, closing time, the polls were jammed with voters and the boards were pressed to keep up with the rush. In the last hour thousands voted and the total vote on Tuesday will show a fine outpouring of citizens bent upon exercising their right of franchise.

C. C. McKibben, present City Treasurer, polled about two to one over Harold A. Good. McKibben getting 4,208 votes, against 2,106 for Good in 21 precincts. McKibben's vote was universally heavy throughout the city, but especially in the fourth ward, his home ward.

In the fight for School Board the Democratic candidates were defeated, all three Republican candidates polling insuperable majorities in every ward but the south side wards. In 14 precincts Robert L. Preston polled 3,133 votes, Griff Thomas 3,087 and C. L. Shira 2,938.

On the Democratic ticket, Harold Harris polled 1,439 votes, Ruffles Johns 1,034 and Nick Calvanese 982. Running on the Communist ticket, Sak Levin polled 116 votes.

Not in many years has a Republican ticket roared through an election with such a load of votes. It was a mighty evidence of what the voters of New Castle wanted, and the Republican leaders today are sitting back with a smile of contentment upon their faces.

Garage Damaged Tuesday Evening

Battery Charger Sets Fire To Moravia Street Structure Last Evening

City firemen were called to the garage of Leroy McClendon, of 1213 Moravia street, at 9:25 p.m. Tuesday, when a battery charger on the rear wall of the garage set fire to the structure.

Damage of around $80 resulted from the blaze, which was soon extinguished by the firemen.

At 11:50 p.m., firemen were called to the Withers Plumbing Shop, at 360 Neshannock avenue, when the building was found filled with smoke. Firemen found that the blaze was in the coal pile in the center, no fire loss resulting.

The board in the second of the seventh is usually first in, and apparently the board members are people who can go through ballots quickly and make an accurate return.

BELGIAN KING IN CONFERENCE AT THE HAGUE

last evening accompanied by Belgian Foreign Minister Paul Spaak. They went immediately to the royal palace and held a long conversation with Queen Wilhelmina and the Dutch foreign minister, Eelco N. Van Kleffens.

There the rulers exchanged their views on the international situation with particular reference to the dangers faced by the two neutral low countries. The conference lasted until 2:30 a. m.

Best information was that the conference, shrouded in secrecy, was not connected with previous mediation offers. King Leopold was scheduled to return to Brussels today.

Ultimatum Reported

(From Paris, H. R. Knickerbocker reported yesterday that the Belgian crown council held a meeting under chairmanship of King Leopold to answer a German communication, described as "in the nature of an ultimatum," asking for definite assurances regarding Belgian neutrality.

(The Belgian foreign office, however, discounted reports of an "ultimative" German note to Belgium and also denied that the crown council had been called.)

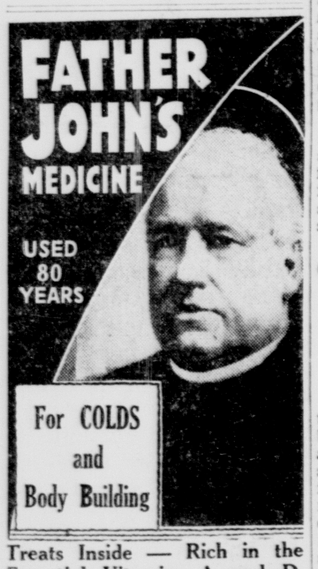

Both Leopold and Spaak spent the night in the royal palace after the talks finally ended.

The unexpected conference aroused the keenest speculation in Netherlands political circles, where the opinion was expressed that the principal topic was a possible peace offer or closer cooperation between The Netherlands and Belgium for preservation of their neutrality.

But while politicians speculated, informed quarters indicated that there was no talk of a peace offer and that the king and queen confined themselves to a discussion of their position in the event of an expected offensive by Germany against the Allies.

Latest developments in the war were said to have convinced Belgium and The Netherlands that their position is more uncertain than ever and that all signs now point to intensification of the war, with added risks to the low countries because of their geographical situation.

Some quarters stated that the two governments regard the situation as "extremely grave."

truck for the transportation of forage for the horses has been placed at the disposition of the troop.

Horses Go In Vans

The horses will be conveyed to Clearfield in the motor vans of the Pennsylvania State Police, and a detachment of men will take the 32 horses of the troop to Butler, Pa., leaving about 7 o'clock Sunday morning. Sixteen men will be detailed to this duty and will ride to camp in the vans with the horses.

Two light machine guns and two pack saddles will be taken with the troop in addition to the regulation saddle per horse.

Cooking during the field training period of the week will be done on a field range, so Mess Sargeant James Foster will have plenty of work cut out for him, particularly due to the fact that the men must be fed on 53 cents per day.

Use Fair Grounds

It has been learned that one squadron will be quartered in the armory; one squadron in an exposition building at the fair grounds; and one squadron in the Pennsylvania State Highway garage. It is presumed that the horses will be quartered in sheds at the fair grounds.

The field training order came with suddenness and found no money available for transportation, so that it was found necessary to use trucks for transportation instead of train, and to use the equipment of other state departments.

Snow fences, which are supposed to keep the snow from drifting on highways during the winter months, are being replaced in some sections of Lawrence county with pine trees. Two rows of the pines are usually planted, which insures a good, heavy hedge. There is much to be said in favor of pines as against fences. Trees will stay put, while it is necessary to put up and take down fences every season. Pines also form a permanent windbreak, and the fences a temporary one at best.

The time has arrived when Pa Newc feels that he may be justified in speaking a good word for our mutual friend, the lawn mower. It's been a faithful servant during the hot summer months, preventing the grass from growing under our feet, and our lawns from becoming unsightly. It's going to hibernate for the winter, and as a mark of appreciation it's as little as we can do to see that it's well greased and oiled. Don't let rust destroy your mower knives.

He will have numerous enumerators under him, who will be the persons who will ply you with questions. He's supposed to hold the information secret, so don't worry.

It is encouraging to note that the State Health Department is preparing to make war on pneumonia by shipping a supply of a drug called "sulfapyridine" to 170 centers throughout the state. And the nice part of it is that the medicine will be distributed free, so that rich and poor alike will get the advantages of the latest discovery. Pneumonia, like diphtheria, works fast. This is why so many stations for distribution of the drug have been designated. An hour or two many mean life or death to a patient. The drug is not a sure cure, but it has resulted in saving many lives.

Delay Final Approval

The commission, in its statement carefully pointed out that final approval of the transfer of registry was being delayed pending the completion of a study of all angles of the case. However, commission officials explained that the decision merely awaited word from company officials that they would comply with all the conditions laid down. Internatinoal News Service was advised by a major company executive:

"We are going to meet all of the requirements."

When the switch is completed these boats, owned by the United States lines but flying the Panama republic flag and under international law then foreign boats, may haul arms or any other cargo available, across the Atlantic and into the ports of warring nations—if they don't get blown up by a submarine or a mine on the way.

The boats involved in the proposed transfer are seven 7,500 ton cargo boats, and the 13,869 ton President Roosevelt. They are all old boats—built shortly after the war. On these particular boats the U. S. Lines owe the government no money, and the lines have agreed to build additional tonnage under American registry to make up for the transfer.

Threat By Maritime Union

New York, Nov. 7.—A threat to march 10,000 American seamen to Washington to picket the maritime commission if alien sailors are given their posts on any ships transferred to Panamanian registry was made today by Joseph Curran, president of the C.I.O. National Maritime Union.

Curran denounced the commission as a "stooge for industrialists seeking war profits" and declared permitting American ships under foregn registry to enter belligerent zones was a dangerous step towards war. He charged the United States Lines, which petitioned for the transfer to foreign registry, with breaking its agreement to hire only union crews.

LOCAL ELECTIONS FEATURE VOTING IN STATE TODAY

the hey-day of Republican power, the Republican majority stood at 2,077,000.

The only statewide balloting was for the 21-year-post of justice of the supreme court and for three 10-year-term superior court judgeships.

Herbert F. Goodrich, Philadelphia, law dean of the University of Pennsylvania, was the Democratic candidate being opposed by Marion D. Patterson, Hollidaysburg, president judge of the Blair county common pleas court, Republican.

Judge Keller Certain

For the superior court, Judge William H. Keller, Lancaster, was sure of election, being endorsed by both parties. The remaining two Republican candidates were Judge Thoms J. Baldridge, Hollidaysburg, seeking re-election, and Judge William E. Hirt, Erie, appointed by Gov. Arthur H. James to fill the vacancy caused by his election last fall.

The Democratic candidates for superior court were in addition to Keller, Congressman J. Harold Flannery, West Pittston, and former State Senator Edward J. Thompson, Philipsburg.

The Democratic appellate court candidates held the endorsements of the Pennsylvania Industrial Union Council, the state CIO body, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, the state A. F. of L., body, and the Railroad Brotherhoods.

Nineteen Court Judges

Of the 19 common pleas judgeship contests, four candidates were sure of election, having been endorsed by both parties, namely in Bucks, Cameron-Clinton-Elk, Montgomery, and Monroe-Pike counties. The salaries run between $10,000-$14,000 a year and the term is usually 10 years.

There were also two contests for state senator, one in Allegheny county to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of P. J. Henney, and the other in Philadelphia, caused by the unseating of Herbert S. Levin. Possible Republican control of the state senate is at stake.

The outstanding municipal contest was in Philadelphia where the Democrats were attempting to overthrow the long-enthroned Republican machine and elect a Democratic common council and mayor.

CHAMBERLAIN IS FORCED TO LAND AT LOCAL PORT

Chamberlin decided to play safe and spend the night here and get an early start in the morning. He took off about eight o'clock this morning for New Jersey, and expected to reach his destination by 9:30 o'clock.

Clarence Chamberlin gained fame from June 4 to 6, in 1927 when he made a record non-stop flight in the monoplane "Columbia" from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Eisleben, Germany. C. A. Levine was a passenger in the plane on this flight. Prior to this time Lieutenant Chamberlin received honors for distinguished service in the United States army air corps while serving in the World War.

Chamberlin was very enthusiastic about the local airport and stated that with the addition of another runway, a hangar and administration building, the local port would be ranked with the best in the state. On his last visit to New Castle in 1930 Chamberlin landed at the old airport on the Harlansburg road.

The Condor bi-plane was much too big to even think of placing it in one of the hangars at the local port, and therefore it was left on the field near the Ice hangar last night.

NATION WATCHES CALIFORNIA AND OHIO BALLOTING

ers," seek to amend the state constitution to provide a $30-every-Thursday pension for the aged over 50. The pension would be paid in state warrants, financed by a three per cent transaction tax. Its critics charge it will bankrupt the state.

Ohio Pension Vote

In Ohio, the pensioners also seek a state constitutional amendment to pay out $50 every month to former wage-earners over 60. It would be financed by an additional two per cent tax on real estate, valued at $20,000 an acre or more, plus an income tax of one-fourth the amount paid by federal income taxpayers to the federal government in any given year. The amendment provides further that the cost of the pension plan shall be a first lien on all state taxes.

National leaders of both parties hope for an anticipate defeat of both plans. They have no desire to see the issue injected into the 1940 presidential campaign and fear a victory for the pensioners in either state will thrust the pension question into next year's elections.

The Democrats meanwhile predict gubernatorial victories in Kentucky and Mississippi. In Kentucky, Governor Keen Johnson (D) is a favorite over Judge King Swope (R). In Mississippi, the Democratic nominee, Paul B. Johnson, is merely going through the formality of election.

Congressional Races

In the two congressional races, both Republicans and Democrats expect to maintain the status quo. The GOP expects to win handily in the Binghamton contest, where Edwin A. Hall (R) is a favorite over John B. Johnson (D). In the Philadelphia contest, John E. Sheridan (D) is favored but no certain winner over Boies Penrose, Jr., (R), nephew of the one-time Republican boss. The GOP cut a 35,000 Democratic plurality in 1936 to 9,171 in 1938 in the district and has some hopes of carrying it today.

The Republicans also expect to elect the mayor in Philadelphia, having a 137,135 plurality in registrations. Their nominee, Judge Robert E. Lamberton, however, is opposed by a Democratic fusion candidate, City Controller Robert C. White, who has plenty of Republican support. There may be an upset here.

Cleveland Election

In Cleveland, Republican Mayor Ralph Burton seeks reelection over John E. O'Donnell, also a Republican, in a nonpartisan contest. In Detroit, Mayor Richard Reading, a Republican, is running against young Edward J. Jeffries, in another nonpartisan contest. In Memphis, the Democratic boss, Edward H. Crump, is running for mayor after having been credited with naming others to that office for about twenty years.

Outside of the Philadelphia mayoralty contest, party leaders see little national importance in these elections. In Philadelphia, a Democratic sweep would be certain to have its effect in 1940 while a Republican victory would be taken to indicate Pennsylvania is safely back in the GOP column, since the Keystone state usually goes as Philadelphia goes.

HELD FOR COURT

At a hearing before Alderman David I. Pearsall last night on charges of assault and battery preferred by Norman Cochran against J. F. P. Kennelly, the alderman held Kennelly for court. He gave bail. The accusations grew out of an alleged occurrence Hallowe'en when trouble assertedly was caused at the Kennelly home by Hallowe'eners. Cochran maintained he was struck by Kennelly with a piece of crock.

SEE THAT NEUTRALITY LAW WORKS

WITH the United States, determined to keep out of Europe's war, now committed to a drastically revamped Neutrality Act, it remains for the American government and the American people to make the new law work.

President Roosevelt has taken steps, under the measure, to bulwark the nation's neutrality. He has proclaimed that a state of war exists between Germany, on one side, and France, Poland, the United Kingdom, India, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the Union of South Africa. He has proclaimed that submarines of belligerent states may not enter United States waters by intent. He has proclaimed a combat area which American ships, aircraft and neutrals are prohibited from entering.

Under the Amended Neutrality Act our ships are forbidden to carry cargoes to warring nations. Under the combat zone proclamation, our vessels are also, in effect, barred from trade with such neutrals as Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia.

It is noteworthy that our neutrality regulations do not, for the present, ban American vessels from Mediterranean ports. But, as the president himself says, other combat zones, with the required prohibitory rulings for American ships, will be established if made necessary by the war.

Even so, the new law is not absolute proof against provocative incidents involving our merchant ships. It would be well for the American people to guard against undue excitement if such incidents should occur. Their unemotional attitude in the City of Flint case was highly commendable.

Furthermore, the neutrality regulations will call for sacrifices. Shipping, export and other businesses are likely to suffer losses. Credit and travel limitations may cause annoyance and inconvenience.

But just as the nation is temporarily surrendering some of its rights, so businesses and individuals ought to make the best of a bad situation.

The purpose of this restrictive legislation is to keep the United States out of a foreign war that is not its concern. All other considerations, at present, are of minor importance.

NOT MACHINES BUT MEN!

When considering the inroads German submarines have made and may make both on British shipping and the English navy, it is well to remember that it is the human problem, and not mechanical replacements, that means eventual success or failure in the underseas campaign.

Germany will probably experience little trouble in building new submarines to replace those lost—and it is claimed Hitler already has lost 20 of the 60 with which he entered the war. But to replace the lost crews is a far different matter. For no other arm of the service requires the training, technical skill, and experience the submarines demand to be operated successfully.

Germany had more than 200 submarines at the close of the World War, but had neither officers nor crews to properly man them. Their highly trained experts had perished. So it is in the present conflict. Germany's problem is not of the submarines themselves, but the trained men to operate them. A score of such crews already have perished. When a half hundred of these expert groups have gone the way of all warriors, what then?

OPIE READ OUTLIVED THEM ALL

Opie Read had been all but forgotten, and his death in Chicago at the age of 86 came as a shock to many an oldster, who was thus reminded that he hadn't read anything by Opie for several decades.

But Read was a great author, and one of the most popular forty years ago. His "The Jucklins," published in 1895, sold 1,000,000 copies. After gaining national fame as editor of "The Arkansas Traveler," a humorous weekly which was a great success, Read took to writing in earnest and had 52 volumes to his name at his death.

Read was of the school of Mark Twain, Bill Nye, James Whitcomb Riley and Eugene Field and he was their contemporary. But Read had a style all his own, unsurpassed in native philosophy, salty humor and frontier colloquialisms.

He was a story teller on the platform as well and his services were in great demand until he retired voluntarily. He once said that he had spoken in every county in the United States. He started life as a printer, later becoming a small town newspaper publisher.

The tramp printer of the era, with whom Read became well acquainted, could teach any college professor things about punctuation, Read firmly believed.

Anecdotes of Read's early life are almost as numerous as the stories he gave currency. There is one of the weekly newspaper Read established in a supposedly abandoned freight car in a small Arkansas town. One night a switching engine and crew moved the car several miles into the country. The young publisher was put to the necessity of hiring a wagon to bring his plant back to town.

Opie Read outlived both his times and his contemporaries. He was the last of a virile and lusty band that contributed greatly to American literature.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

LOOKING AHEAD TO CHRISTMAS

It is not too early now to be thinking about and planning your Christmas buying for the children. It may be well for dad and mother to agree now on exactly how much they will spend on gifts for each child; then make the wisest selection possible within this budget.

The selection should be far more intelligent if you do this planning now than if you wait till just before Christmas. Ask yourself now what will be the most worthwhile gift or gifts for your child of high school age, for the runabout and tot and for the infant.

Especially for the tot and runabout, you will want the gifts to be educative, useful and lasting; suited, of course, to the age and development of each child. You will want to select playthings each child can operate without the aid of an adult or older child, as a rule, and can enjoy, in many instances, with other children his age.

Keep in mind things with which your young child can create—crayons, water colors, large paper sheets for drawing, colored paper, paste, brads, scissors and the like; for the child over six, tools—good tools—purchased with a view to begin or enlarge a workshop that will grow and last for years—hammer, saw, gimlet, brace and bit, plane, draw knife, vise.

Games Suggested

And games, especially those in which several children or the whole family can participate, are always good gifts.

Don't overlook good books, books from which to read to the young child and books for the older child to read to himself. Go to the book store and see the fine display. But don't assume that the latest is always the best. Keep your eye on those books which have stood the test for years.

Also, there are some magazines now suited to the various ages, even for the tot of three or four. While such children's magazines afford a great deal of fun for the tot as he listens to the things in them read to him, or as he draws and colors with them, these magazines also afford excellent reading materials for the child in the primary grades, and have about the best possible reading materials for the older child who is a poor reader.

Parents looking for gifts for other parents, grandparents for their married sons and daughters, can well consider books on child guidance and happy family living.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Suppose you discovered that your daughter, say she is 19, has been smoking for some while behind your back?

A. I should try, calmly, to persuade her to give it up. Failing in this, I should let her know that I would rather have her smoke in my presence than in my absence. Next, I should try to induce her to limit her smoking to a very small amount.

Q. What would you do to a child, four years old, who told the wildest yarns about all sorts of things which you know could not have happened?

A. I should learn to enjoy the yarns and encourage her to tell more of them, letting her know that I had a good imagination, too. Also, I should try to induce her to make many things with her hands and to play freely with other children her age. Both are good means of helping her check with reality.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A "WANT AD."

Are you a bit worried by that young man on whose education you have spent time and money apparently to little purpose? And are you blaming it on the American school system? Well, my attention has been called to a want ad clipped from a paper published in Lima, Peru, as follows:

"Young Englishman with ten dissolute years in various Republics of South America, and a spirit not yet quite broken by experience in banks, oil fields, traveling representation and other work, thinks himself well qualified to fill a well-paid, responsible and agreeable position. Failing this he would be glad to consider the other kind. Possesses a certain amount of capital which he will invest provided it can be lost pleasantly and not too rapidly. Write J. I. E., El Commercio."

Every relief agency in America gets applications from people who, except for the "certain amount of capital" are looking the same kind of work.

A majority of girls who worked during the days when your mother was in her twenties widely proclaimed their refusal to marry any man who could not deliver them from their jobs. How many of these are now lonely and single? Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am about to become engaged but will not be married for an indefinite time; perhaps not for about two years. Should I announce my engagement? If so should I mention the far off wedding? Or should no announcement be made at all, under these circumstances?—Lois.

Answer: An engagement is usually announced for about two to six months before the wedding. But even though the wedding date has not been decided upon or even though it be in the distant future, many young couples and their parents decide to announce the engagement to still wagging tongues and to tell the world of their relationship. Under these circumstances, no mention is usually made of the wedding date.

What's What At A Glance

Muzzled Politics To Burst Forth
Adjournment Of Congress Lifts Lid
Inter-Party Truce Is Now At An End

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, No. 7

WITH CONGRESS' adjournment politics shortly will be rampant again. It's been pretty well muzzled during the neutrality debate on Capitol Hill. True, there's been a conflict on the embargo and related issues, but it hasn't been on party lines. Republicans have bolted G. O. P. ranks to vote for embargo repeal, as desired by the Democratic administration. Not all of them, but a fair proportion. Contrariwise, some Democrats have been as vehement anti - repealers, against White House wishes, as any anti-repeal Republican.

The anti-administration Democrats might have been expected to be solidly against repeal, simply because the administration was asking for it, but they've been split also. For instance, Senators Clark of Missouri and Glass of Virginia have been rated as anti-New Dealers, despite their Democratic labels. They disagreed as to the arms embargo, however. Clark opposed repeal as vigorously as Republican Senator Nye of North Dakota, who invented the embargo. Glass has been an equally vigorous repealist.

President Roosevelt knew he couldn't prevent a neutrality fight, but urged the scrappers to waive partisanship, on the well-known ground that politics ought to "end at the water's edge." The lawmakers complied. They pulled one another's hair energetically, to the extent of indulging in some very unparliamentary language. There was talk to the effect that the discussion was kept on a "high plane," but considerable of it hasn't sounded so to the press gallery. Nevertheless, it's a fact that the rumpus hasn't been politically partisan.

There probably never has been a case in which senators and representatives have voted their individual honest convictions as generally as in this one.

A Truce Only

But this inter-party truce has been a truce only.

Plenty of ugly domestic differences of opinion still are hanging fire. They're well within our waters' edges.

The New Dealers are as determined as ever to go ahead with their program.

The Democratic anti-New Dealers, most of the Republicans and a scattering of independents (not all) are as determined as ever to block it.

They'll go to the partisan mat in January.

Unless, possibly—

If the war gets worse than it is at present.

If it does get worse, who can tell?

If it does, there may be some more water's edging, with the New Deal forgotten.

But the chances are that it won't get much worse during the winter. The weather will be adverse to very fierce military operations for the next few months.

Politics will have time to boil and bubble throughout the rest of November, on through December, January and February, and well into March. By then partisanship will be so red-hot, war or no war, that it'll be too late to cool it off ahead of the national conventions.

Or supposing that the war, happily, does frazzle out in the meantime, that ends it; we'll have politics anyway.

The Conventions

The 1940 Republican convention promises to be comparatively peaceful. Of course there'll be rival candidate, but they're not vicious rivalries.

The Democratic affair, though! Oo, oi! The two Democratic groups hate each other worse than Democrats hate Republicans or vice versa. John N. Garner now looms as the conservatives' outstanding "white hope." If he's out-nominated, it wouldn't be surprising to see a third party ticket. Even if not, a lot of conservative Democrats are sure to prefer a Republican to another New Deal administration. Or

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

The Funk and Wagnalls company conducts a sort of Gallup poll on what the rest of the world thinks of America, in its newly published book, "You Americans." The book is a symposium of the views of fifteen foreign press correspondents in America, assigned to write what they think about us, with no holds barred and no punches pulled. The result is, in the opinion of this onlooker, both interesting and valuable.

The contributors are all men and women of high professional rank and integrity; many of them have been stationed here for many years; being professional observers they do not weigh us as do the politicians in the scale of trade or power politics alone, but in human values and in a collective appraisal of our culture, our peculiarities and our human virtues and defects. There is criticism, salutary no doubt, and some of it keenly observed and merited. There is a full and fair estimate of our world stature and on the whole prophecy of a nigh destiny There is in the book no double talk of any kind and no hint of propaganda for foreign powers. I was impressed with the fact that through these experienced and discerning eyes of other lands we are still a land of promise.

The book is edited, and the introduction ably written by B. P. Adams, New York journalist and former editor of the Literary Digest. In his introduction, Mr. Adams conveys light without heat and the contributions are in the same mood.

The contributors are Carlos Davila, of Chile; Raoul de Roussy de Sales, France; Mira Gavrilovitch, Yugoslavia; Alberto Caprile, Jr., Argentina; Bernard Person, Holland; Antonio Iglesias, Mexico; Guenther Reinhardt, Switzerland; Naboth Hedin, Sweden Gian Gaspare Napolitano, Italy; George Kao, China; Emil Lengyel, Hungary; Curt Riess, Germany, Yasuo E. Muraoka, Japan, Harold Butcher, England, and Pete Sandstol, Norway.

One of the shrewdest and frankest estimates is by Carlos Davila, brilliant Chilean journalist, founder and editor of the newspapers, La Nacion and Los Tiempos former ambassador to Washington and provisional president of Chile.

He takes a cold, hard look at government spending and pump-priming, millions of unemployed our labor troubles, and other critical problems, and concludes:

"What is perhaps the world's most rational democracy has been functioning here with fair success It is a system having curious and at the same time transcendental characteristics. It is full of contradictions because it borrows something from the systems and preoccupations of all the nations that contributed to its formation. But it has like a mosaic, an essential and astounding unity that bears the stamp of a movement toward a loftier form of social organization.

"Above all, the American System is an 'ever unfinished process'. The American Way is not a static, concrete road. American Intuition could very well be another name for it. This conclusion is not prompted by Pollyanna-like optimism. I believe that the thoughtful realism of the American nation can be trusted to find the means of adjusting its political system to new economic conditions—the problems of today. American political thinking, after a long, long vacation, shows signs of coming back to work."

'Ham 'N Eggs' Pension Plan Is Being Voted On By Californians

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 7.—Amid an abundance of campaign literature, radio oratory and even circus ballyhoo, the battle of the controversial "ham 'n' eggs' pension measure thundered to a dramatic close in California.

Today some 2,800,000 voters, grimness and determination evident on both sides of the desperate conflict, will approve or reject a plan which provides payment of $30 every Thursday to those who have reached the age of 50 years and are able to qualify for the startling benefits.

Once before, on November 8, 1938, a somewhat milder version of the "ham 'n' eggs" proposition was pondered by the people of California. The widely-discussed pension idea was voted down, but that was at a general election which brought out 75 per cent of the registration, and the margin of defeat was only 255,000 votes out of 2,542,000 cast.

Since then backers of the plan have worked hard and spent much money to gain new supporters. The "ham 'n' eggs" voting strength for today's special election was estimated by experts as close to 1,500,000, and it was pointed out that there will be few of the oldsters and their partisans who will not vote.

The California registration is 3,606,000, so that opponents of the measure who are prone to analyze, were insisting that advance victory claims of the "ham 'n' eggs" must not be dismissed with a wave of the hand. Many places of business throughout the state closed part of election day that everyone might have an opportunity to vote.

The campaign now closing has been a costly one for both sides. From an estimated 450,000 members throughout the state has come thousands of dollars in contributions to finance the myriad activities of the $30-every-Thursday organization. Members are supposed to pay one cent a day.

Technically known as California retirement life payments, the "ham 'n' eggs" plan special election was called by Gov. Culbert Olson at the behest of promoters who last spring presented petitions bearing the signatures of an estimated million or so persons who asked for $30-every-Thursday.

The pension advocates have claimed on many occasions that they were instrumental in the election of Olson, a Democrat. Now they are embittered toward the governor because, when he issued his election proclamation, he declared he did not think the proposal would accomplish the things hoped for it. He asserted in a radio speech that he believed the plan is unworkable.

AROUND CITY HALL

Seventy-three persons violated the parking meter ordinance in October, according to a report delivered by Mayor Charles E. McGrath to council, in session in city hall, Monday. Fourteen others broke other traffic regulations, two of them having been arrested for speeding.

Intoxication was not so great during October, according to police. Fifty-one were arrested for being drunk, 10 others were jailed on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct, but three who "mixed gasoline and alcohol," then drove a car, were arrested for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

One hundred and seventeen persons among those arrested by city police in October paid either a fine or secured freedom through a cash bond. Six others were sent to the county jail to serve time and 34 were discharged by Mayor Charles E. McGrath in police court. Others were turned over to aldermanic custody because the violations of law were not considered sufficiently serious for court action.

Not everyone arrested by city police and found guilty in police court goes to the county jail. Last month the mayor in police court decided 18 whose offenses were not so serious were sentenced to serve time in the city jail for a brief period. This kept down the cost to the city of paying board for prisoners.

Probe Death Of Four Miners In West Virginia

(International News Service)

MULLENS, W. Va., Nov. 7—Death of four miners and serious injury to another in a mine explosion prompted an investigation today by officials of the Brule-Smokeless Coal company. The blast occurred yesterday at the company's workings at Otsego, three miles from Mullens.

A preliminary inquiry indicated the explosion was due to ignition of an accumulation of gas, it was stated. Ninety-five other men working in the mine escaped without injuries.

Postal Heads See 'Big Yule Rush'

With Christmas Nearing, City's Office Makes Preparations

Christmas Day is seven weeks off, but preparations for "a big holiday business" were afoot at the local post office. Assistant Postmaster James G Leslie and his staff already have launched into numerous preliminaries, routine so far as Christmas arrangements go.

Mailing of Christmas gifts to foreign lands, Leslie warned, must be started early if delivery is to be made before the holiday. With war conditions prevailing this year, more time should be allowed for delivery, he said.

Postal officials said gifts will be delivered to warring countries in the routine manner, providing, of course, there is no unforeseen interruption.

International postal laws provide that packages shall be returned to senders if delivery cannot be made—and if return addresses are provided European countries will send back matter not delivered.

Letters to Poland, Germany and other trouble-torn lands, out of New Castle, officials said, continues daily.

How 3 Mothers out of 5 RELIEVE THE MISERY OF THEIR Children's Colds

VICK HOMES—3 out of 5
For two generations Vicks VapoRub has been mothers' standby. It is used in more homes than all other medications of its kind put together.

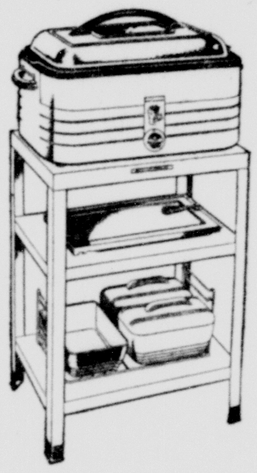

CAN BE USED FREELY . . . VapoRub is an external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risks of stomach upsets. You simply rub it on throat, chest, and back.

ACTS DIRECT . . . VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief, two direct ways at once: (1) It acts direct on the skin like a poultice; (2) Its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air passages with every breath. This direct poultice-and-vapor action quickly loosens phlegm—clears the air passages—checks tendency to cough—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves irritation—brings comfort and invites restful sleep.

SENSATIONAL RESULTS IN CLINICAL TESTS

VapoRub is an important medication in Vicks Plan which was tested in a clinic of 2,650 children. Look at the results! Reports from supervising doctors show sickness from colds cut 54.95%; school absences due to colds 77.99% among the children following the Plan—who were instructed to obey specified health rules, to use Vicks Va-tro-nol (nasal medication) when colds threatened, and to use VapoRub if a cold developed. Look in your VapoRub package for story of these tests and directions for following Vicks Plan in your own home.

Briskly massage VapoRub on the throat and chest... Also on the back.

Showgirl Friend Of Judge Crater Has Been Found

HOSPITAL PATIENT SINCE NOVEMBER 1936

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The New York Journal-American today announced that June Brice, native of Columbus, O., and long-missing showgirl friend of the vanished Supreme Court Justice Joseph Force Crater, has been found by a Journal-American reporter in the Pilgrim State Hospital at Brentwood, Long Island, where she has been confined since November, 1936.

Miss Brice, known as Mrs. Winthrop Covell and by her real name of Jennie Rosalie Holstein, the Journal-American said, was confined at the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island for a full year before entering Pilgrim State Hospital.

Rambling Patient

She was described by the Journal-American as "a rambling, incoherent patient." She is the key witness in attempts of Emil K. Ellis, attorney for Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz, former wife of the missing jurist, to prove that Judge Crater died by violence.

The story added:

"With her aid Ellis, to prove violence and obtain for Mrs. Kunz $60,000 in double indemnity on the jurist's insurance policies, was expected to tell a court that Crater visited Mrs. Covell on the night of his disappearance and offered her $5,000 to sever their friendship.

Taken For Ride

"Instead, the attorney's story was believed to run, two gangsters waylaid Judge Crater and took him for a ride in an attempt to extort $50,000 from him."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Judge Crater's disappearance antedated that of June Brice by two weeks, she vanishing on Sept. 14, 1930. Mrs. Crater, after her husband had been declared legally dead, remarried and now, as Mrs. Stella Crater Kunz, is seeking to collect double indemnity insurance of $60,000 on the grounds the jurist died by "external, violent or accidental means.")

Nervous Breakdown

At the time of Miss Brice's disappearance she was being sought as a witness by the grand jury probing Judge Crater's disappearance. The Journal-American said that she suffered a nervous breakdown in September 1930, and was committed to the neurological institute in New York for treatment. The story said she was released the following December 15, and transferred to Columbus State Hospital at Columbus, O.

The Journal-American said:

"Solution of the mystery surrounding her departure completely upset theories advanced that Miss Brice was dead, perhaps by violence.

"But June Brice, according to the story that reporters pieced together from a dozen different sources, including her mother, Mrs. M. E. Holstein, of 1812 Harrison avenue, Columbus, has undergone a fate worse than death."

Tried To Suicide

More than once, the story added, she has tried to free herself by suicide, but all her attempts have failed.

The Journal-American said she was released from Columbus State Hospital on March 31, 1931, and returned to New York. She had been married, the story added, to H. Winthrop Covell, U. S. Army Chaplain stationed at Fort Sherman, Neb., but the marriage ended in divorce.

In New York, she occupied a one-room apartment on the east side in mid-town Manhattan. The Journal-American quoted her mother as revealing two ill-fated romances thereafter—one with a young man who was killed in an accident, another with a married man whose wife refused him a divorce.

Believed Deranged

The story added that in October, 1935, Miss Brice was found cutting bundles of letters into small pieces and stuffing them into a fireplace in her apartment and soon afterward tried to stab herself with an ice-pick. This incident was followed immediately, the Journal-American informant said, by the dissuading with difficulty of Miss Brice who had run from the apartment and started for the roof.

She was taken first to Bellevue hospital, then to the Manhattan State Hospital on Ward's Island on Oct. 30, 1935. She was transferred to Pilgrim State Hospital on Nov. 24, 1936, the Journal-American said, and has been there ever since.

Nazi Germany Stiffens Attitude On Neutrals

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Nazi Germany stiffened in her attitude toward the neutral powers of Western Europe today.

Official spokesmen rapped their "weakness" in defending sovereign shipping rights against the British blockade and deprecated the real importance of last night's meeting between King Leopold of Belgium and Queen Wilhelmina of Holland at The Hague.

Beneath the official attitude there was an undercurrent of German annoyance over the City of Flint affair and with Belgium's protest regarding German airplane activities. In addition, there was some uneasiness over the war's stalemate and a resurgence of rumors that some showdown was imminent.

The knowledge of heavy troop concentrations on both sides of the Franco-German frontier lent impetus to the latter reports, but opinion in neutral circles was divided as to whether any forthcoming German blow would fall against England alone or in conjunction with sweeping military movements elsewhere, including the Balkans.

Some observers were inclined to be skeptical over the entire matter, attributing the rumors and reports to a revival of the now famous European "war of nerves."

if Garner (or some other old-timer) wins, there's certain to be a shoal of New Dealers who won't support him.

Naturally the Republicans will do their dardest to capitalize on this anticipated Democratic division.

Doesn't this forecast a mean partisan campaign following the conventions?

At that stage of the game the water's edge considerations may only complicate matters.

works in a brief Apologia Fascisma this is a friendly forum and all out in the open, and in the American tradition of free speech.

"Let us hope," he says, "that America's own severe crisis of recent years will lead to a more sympathetic understanding between the United States and Italy. The United States has been compelled to adopt its own 'emergency measures'. And so, Americans may well be less critical of the 'emergency' program found necessary by another country, which, indeed, had been living in a continuous state of 'emergency' since the World War."

This, and of course we may make our ticket as to how far any "emergency" may carry us and in what direction, is the only such comparison of forms of government in the book.

The book interests me as a tiny analogue of Clarence Streit's heroic conception of 'Union Now." That is, there is commingling here the honest views of informed responsible, adult individuals, and not the pronouncements of an abstraction called a league. That, I believe, is Mr. Streit's idea—a coming together of peoples, rather than a league of states, without sacrifice of nationality.

PARIS CELEBRATES AS AIRMEN BRING DOWN 9 GERMAN PLANES

power politics during the last two years, have clearly met their master in the American planes.

Furthermore, the French jubilantly point out that the allies will have an inexhaustible supply of these American planes as a result of the new United States neutrality law, which has lifted the arms embargo.

Details of the battle have not yet been revealed, much to the disappointment of French newspaper men, who literally howled for the story at this morning's press conference.

The French planes were flying high in a patrol along the front. The weather was brilliant but the French airmen were high enough to remain unseen through a few fleecy clouds.

They had the luck to see the enemy first as the large fleet of Messerschmidts crossed over the Franco-German frontier.

The young French commander then was faced with this decision: Whether to attack with the odds in numbers three to one against him, or fly to certain safety.

Never hesitating, he chose to attack. Ordering each ship to pick its Messerschmidt. Then, like rockets, the nine American-made planes with their French crews zoomed down to the kill.

For the next few moments the skies were filled with the screams of motors, pounding cannon, the roar of machine guns and the fantastic parabolas of hurtling bodies of flame and smoke.

The French high command's laconic communique told the rest of the story: Nine enemy craft were shot down, seven in French territory and two spiraling in flames behind the German lines.

Each plane "took out" its opponent, as inexorably as does a good lineman in a football game.

The surviving German craft fled in disorder to their home bases and the French returned to theirs in triumph.

ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA SHOCK TO GERMANY

nonplussed. In all decency, they probably feel, Stalin might have kept alive for a little while the spectre of outright Soviet military aid to Germany.

Strictly speaking, Russia has announced during these last 24 hours no fundamental change in policy but decided in her own interests to clear the air of some misconceptions. Stalin called upon two of his best and most forceful speakers to disabuse England, France, Germany, the United States and everyone else of any false ideas they may have had about the Communist creed.

This was enunciated by the high moguls of the Soviet regime in resounding rhetoric but which boiled down to this simple definition:

"All for us and we for ourselves."

In reaffirming their policy of strict "neutrality," what the Russians were trying to say was that they were going to do whatever they wanted to do, by themselves or in concert with anyone else, just so long as the net result obtained was to the complete and unadulterated advantage of the Soviet Union itself.

Russia Reaffirms Determination To Remain Neutral

Peace Policy To Be Maintained

Message Is Given To World By Defense Commissar K. E. Voroshilow

BRANDS ALLIES AS WAR AGGRESSORS

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—Reaffirming its determination to remain at peace, Soviet Russia's government today branded Britain and France as "aggressors" in the European war and called on the people of the U.S.S.R. to trust the Red army.

This message to the people of the Soviet Union and the world was conveyed in an "order of the day" issued by Defense Commissar Klement E. Voroshilov.

It followed by only a few hours Premier-Foreign Commissar V .M. Molotov's address, pledging continued Russian neutrality in the European war, and a Communist international manifesto, calling for revolts in all belligerent nations against continuation of the "capitalistic" struggle.

Voroshilov's "order of the day" stated:

"The Soviet people are relying upon the powerful Red army and navy to continue to pursue a consistent policy of peace. They are relying upon the victorious Red army calmly and confidently to continue its peace labors while keeping a watchful eye on the present most complicated and sanguinary international situation.

"No developments can catch it unawares.

"The Soviets know their friends well and can distinguish between friends and foes. The far-sighted foreign policy of Stalin has not allowed those who like others to pull chestnuts out of the fire for them to involve the Soviet Union in war.

"The European war, in which Britain and France acted as zealous champions and instigators, has not yet developed into a conflagration. But the British and French aggressors are showing no desire for peace and are exerting every effort to fan the war and extend it to other countries.

"Pursuing a policy of neutrality, the Soviet government in every way is striving for establishment of the peace so greatly needed by the peoples of all countries.

"Great, powerful and invincible is the Union of Soviet Socialist republics. The peoples of the Soviet and of the country are certain of the future and face it with confidence. The Red army is always alert."

Britain Would Favor Registry Change For Ships

Plan To Use U. S. Ships Under Panama Registry Inferentially Approved

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 7 — Inferential British approval of plans to place eight American ships under the flag of Panama, thus permitting them to enter the combat zones forbidden to American vessels and citizens by President Roosevelt, was revealed today.

Naval circles in London indicated Britain would be willing to provide armed convoys, for American ships flying the flag of Panama provided the British navy is asked to do so.

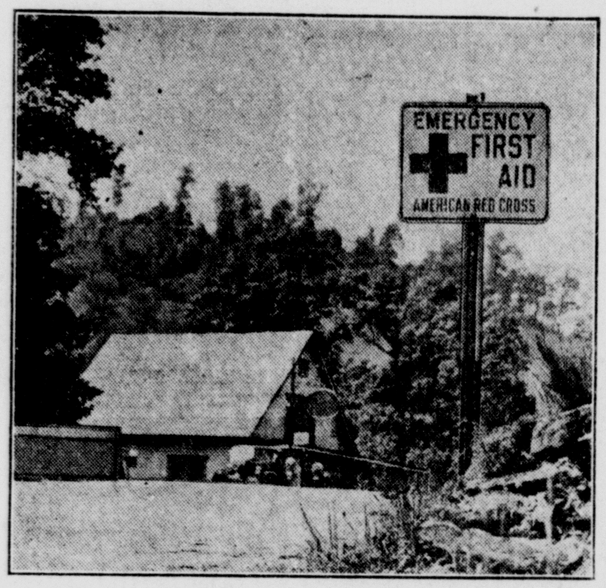

(Editor's note: Germany warned only recently that neutral ships accepting convoy of armed enemy naval craft would be subject to sinking without warning.)

This was the first and unofficial British reaction to news from Washington that the United States Maritime Commission had been asked to approve change in the registry of eight American vessels.

Both naval and merchant marine quarters expressed belief that ships bearing American arms and munitions to the Allies will be special targets of German submarines and surface raiders.

These Signs Check Speeders; Mark Aid For Auto Victims

As part of its compaign to cut the accident toll the Red Cross has established 5,362 emergency first aid stations and mobile units on America's highways to give traffic victims roadside care while the doctor is on the way. More than 10,000 metal signs like the above check speeding motorists and advertise "help at hand" in the event of accident.

The Lawrence County Chapter has been active in training people who are located in spots where highway first aid is so needed. Due to the strick rules laid down by Nation headquarters, it is not always possible for the Chapter to establish this service. One highway station has been functioning on the Youngstown road under the supervision of the Dewberry Brothers. These young men won National recognition after handling a serious accident.

Harry Culliford, chairman of first aid has been working on a station for the Harlansburg intersection Thomas C. West is a trained first aider, and has aided many injured motorists at this point, but before National sanction may be had Mr. West must have a trained assistant.

The American Red Cross has trained 2,000,000 first aiders in all walks of life since 1910. The local Chapter, during 1939-1939 certified 480. First aiders. These first aiders volunteered their services at Community picnics, the County Fair and dedication of the West Pittsburg Pennsylvania Power plant and other place and gave 3576 per cent hours of volunteer service.

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

There are about 117,000 totally blind persons in the United States.

This is a major problem in society and likely to increase.

Blindness will increase, because there are more old persons.

One-fourth of the blind are over 75 years of age.

Three-fifths are over 55.

What causes so much blindness? Cataract, glaucoma and trachoma.

More general diseases cause a lot of blindness.

High blood pressure, hardening of arteries and diabetes.

Accidents cause about 21 per cent of blindness.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Slow Response In Hospital Drive

Only Ninety Memberships So Far Reported—Five Hundred Are Needed

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 7—Local hospital authorities are alarmed over the slow return of hospital membership renewals and the dismal outlook of the possibility of signing new members.

To rightfully do its share this community should have 500 citizens who are civic spirited enough to contribute $10 each toward maintaining a hospital that is ever ready to care for the sick and injured.

Up to and including today's report we have ninety citizens that have answered the plea of the local hospital for support.

With industry on the upgrade and practically everyone working, this community ought to rally and be glad that they can contribute to so worthy an institution. Checks are to be made out to the Ellwood City Hospital and mailed to the Chamber of Commerce.

Special receipt cards will be mailed out from the hospital to all those that join.

Latest Ellwood City Hospital memberships:

Walter B. Baisch, Nagel's Cash Market, H. R. Johnson, Mrs. H. R. Johnscn, Carol 1st Roumanian Aid Society, J. Ellis Bell, G. B. Hancher, Ralph C. Shaffer, H. F. Wilson, European Bakery, Harry N. N. R. Casillo Relates Adventure In Alaska

Nicholas R. Casillo, a faculty member of the New Castle high school, author of outdoor yarns and a traveler, delivered a most interesting address before members of the New Castle Exchange club, Monday evening in The Castleton.

Casillo turned back the pages of history to 1922 when he was a student at New Hampshire. Leaving college during the Easter vacation, he told how he and a companion hurried to Three Rivers, Quebec, where a gold strike was in progress, Casillo's description of Quebec was a highlight of his talk.

Disappointed, Casillo and his friend journey to Montreal, and later to Alaska, where they were hired by one of the biggest salmon canneries in the world. Casillo cleverly described the archipelago of Alaska. He remarked about his duties which consisted of watching a salmon trap in a desolate sector surrounded by a vast number of animals.

Since the firm offered a bounty, Casillo told about killing more than 150 eagles. While crossing the log part of the trap, one day, in pursuit of an eagle which he had shot, Casillo's clothing caught in the logs. He vividly explained his futile struggle to extricate himself. He was rescued by his friend who happened by.

The talk was one of the most interesting every heard by the local club.

L. J. Lewis, president, introduced the speaker.

Workmen Struck By Stray Shots

Andrew Pfahles, of South Jefferson street, contractor, and one of his employes, Chris Assid, of Long avenue, had an exciting experience Monday.

While working on a driveway approach from Winter road in Union township, to a new home they were building, they heard the discharge of guns in a field near by, and promptly "ducked" their heads. Soon they raised their heads, and bang went the guns again, and some of the shot from the guns struck Mr. Pfahles in the chest, and a few in the face, and Mr Assid in the chest. With the impact and shock they fell to the ground. Feeling the blood trickling down his face, Mr. Pfahles and his companion got up, and after composing themselves, started to see a doctor for medical aid. The three hunters after getting over their fright, caught up with them, offered to take their victims for aid. Upon examination it was found neither was hurt seriously, as their heavy leather coats and other clothing were some protection. The shot was taker out of Mr. Pfahles face. The hunters did not get the rabbit.

Election Boards Confused Over Holsinger Status

County Commissioners Clerk, William A. Eakin, received a number of calls from election boards this forenoon asking what to do about the name of John Holsinger, Democratic candidate for prothonotary, who died since the ballots were printed, and whose name appears on the ballots.

In some district the boards were not certain whether or not Mr. Holsinger was dead, and in others, the boards wanted to know if the ballots were to be counted.

There is nothing to prevent anyone putting a cross after the Holsinger name, and of course where a straight party ticket is voted, his name will be included, and the votes cast must be counted, the same as any other.

So far as known there has been no concerted party action toward voting for any particular candidate by writing in names or stickers.

The fire had gained considerable headway when discovered, but firemen did a good job in checking the blaze.

Dope Traffic, Counterfeiting, Hit By New Drive

Enforcement Agencies Coordinate In Death Blow At Crime Cohorts

BOOTLEGGING IS ALSO INCLUDED

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The dope traffic, counterfeiting and bootlegging have been dealt staggering blows by the Treasury Department's recently—and quietly—coordinated law enforcement agencies, Elmer L. Irey, director of the massed force of 2,800 T-men, disclosed today.

The Customs Bureau, the Alcohol Tax Unit, the Secret Service, the Internal Revenue Bureau's Intelligence Unit, and the Narcotics Bureau are cooperating with each other so efficiently that dope can be purchased only at prohibitive prices, counterfeiting has dropped to one-third of its 1935 volume, and alcohol tax evasions have been drastically curtailed, Irey asserted.

Under President Roosevelt's government reorganization plans approved by the last Congress, the way was cleared for issuance of an executive order bringing all the treasury law enforcement agencies under a single command. But Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau opposed the move on the grounds it might be construed as establishment of an American Gestapo.

Voluntary Cooperation

Irey, however, by efforts so intense that he has been forced to relinquish direction of the IRB Intelligence Unit—where he gained renown as the officer who finally "got" Al Capone—has achieved a system of highly efficient voluntary cooperation between the various treasury law enforcement groups.

The coordination of the T-men was intensified several weeks ago, the chief treasury agent revealed, and on Monday of this week Irey moved his offices from the Internal Revenue Bureau into the Treasury Department building to direct continuance of the crime drive from a more central location.

Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger of the Narcotics Bureau corroborated Irey's disclosure of the decline in the dope traffic, and praised agents of other treasury agencies as well as his own for their zealous activity and cooperation.

The coordination program has enabled each law enforcement branch to operate much more efficiently, because both personnel and facilities of each group is always available to the other units, Irey explained.

Policy Of Cooperation

If, for instance, narcotics agents need reinforcements to make a raid, they call on officers of the nearest treasury enforcement agency, regardless of which it may be.

Further, Irey pointed out, some of his agencies possess laboratory and communications facilities which others do not have, but under coordination they are available. Free interchange of information between agencies also has proved invaluable, he said.

Fifteen districts have been set up, in each of which the various agencies take turns in furnishing a regional coordinator. Frequent conferences attended by all agents are held, at which problems are discussed and aid tendered.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BABY'S INSTINCTIVE HABIT IS TO SWALLOW SMALL OBJECTS

I suppose 90 percent of the mothers of this country live in constant fear that their babies will swallow something within reach. Doctors are continually being summoned by a nervous mother who is sure the baby has swallowed a safety pin.

Well, to be perfectly frank, most children do manage to swallow some object they shouldn't, at one time or another. Fortunately it isn't often that the thing they swallowed causes any trouble. Not long ago I visited a large children's hospital. On one wall of the corridor leading to the operating room they have a display of objects they have removed from children's digestive tracts. The number and variety of this display is really astonishing.

Babies have a practically unbreakable habit of trying to carry to their mouths everything they can get their hands on. As I say, this action is instinctive; you can't do anything about it, so the only thing to do is see that no object is left within the child's reach that can do him any harm if he does swallow it.

Most objects swallowed needn't give rise to fear on the part of the parents. For instance a child will swallow a marble and it will pass right through his system and do him no harm. The same is true of a small coin.

I recall an amusing incident that occurred in my practice. I had been called to see a baby that was ill and I left a small box of pills to be given to the little fellow. You see, it used to be that if you didn't leave medicine of some kind for the patient, you were just no good as a doctor.

Anyway, I left the pills—tiny, harmless ones. The mother wasn't well, so she showed a little neighbor girl how to give them, and left to her the responsibility of seeing that the child got them. Somehow the pills got mixed up with a small box of beads someone had left around, and the little girl, who wasn't any too bright, gave the beads to the baby instead of the pills.

This had been going on for about a week when one day the mother noticed one of the beads in the child's stools. Right away she thought of the pills, went to look and, sure enough, the box was almost untouched. Well, they came to me in a terrible state of mind. The little fellow was as well as could be. In fact, the beads may have done him as much good as the pills could have done. However, I have never prescribed them to anyone since.

While there are certain objects babies can swallow and suffer no apparent harm, there are other objects, such as pins. It is up to the parents to see that no objects like this should ever be within baby's reach.

Safety pins provide the greatest problem. Unfortunately, these are part of the baby's attire and sometimes one of them comes loose, the child find it and puts it into his mouth. One way of avoiding such an accident is to use large safety pins that the child can't possibly get them into his mouth. Many mothers wisely use large blanket pins for fastening the bed covers down. I have even known mothers who used them for pinning diapers.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

318 E. Garfield Avenue.
New Castle, Pa.,
November 6, 1939.

To: The New Castle News Co.,
North Mercer Street,
New Castle, Pennsylvania.
Gentlemen:—

In a recent issue of The News there appeared a fact stating that in a survey that there are only two birds per acre. I believe that proves that birds are on the decline. This is especially true of our song birds; such as the, scarlet tanger, orioles, blue birds, etc. Our present laws protect the birds mainly from the bird fanciers. Our present day canary would be extinct if it were not taken and bred in captivity. Why should we bird fanciers import foreign birds, when we have in many instances better ones in this country? In such countries, as Spain, Italy and parts of France, birds may be trapped at certain times of the year. Birds are also protected in the breeding season in a much stricter manner by men who are sincerely interested in their reproduction.

Many of the European restaurants handle partridges, wild pigeons, pheasants, and even thrushes. In this country only the most exclusive restaurants serve them; and at very exhorbitant prices. Yes! we may keep pheasants and other game birds in captivity, but they are for the use of the sportsman. We should have stricter laws that will protect birds from their natural enemies. I honestly believe by permitting qualified bird fanciers in keeping any native bird that can successfully be bred; this would remedy the fast-growing decline. This assures their reproduction. Hoping to hear from others interested in saving our diminishing song birds.

Yours sincerely,
JOSEPH GEBBIA.

WINGS-HAWKS BATTLE—Detroit Red Wings tangle with Chicago's Black Hawks in Chicago in opening game of hockey season.

Gridiron Parade Here Nears Judges' Stand

November is advancing and another local pigskin parade is nearing the judges' stand.

With the exception of New Castle high and Westminster college, all Lawrence county elevens say farewell to the popular fall sport this week.

Union Township's last stand is against the New Castle Reserves, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on Union field. The Scotland Laners hope to ring up their lone victory of the season. The Reserves include the "ugly ducklings" of the Red Hurricane who will carry on in the future. The game should be exciting.

The local parade continues Saturday afternoon with local clubs involved in four clashes.

Joe Hartman, who used to prance around the gridiron in a New Castle high moleskin more than 15 years ago, hopes to see his Grove City high eleven mow down New Castle's Canes at Taggart stadium. With the locals in some kind of a slump, the game promises to be one of those close tiffs with lots of thrills.

Ellwood City high, which marched undefeated after dropping their opening game to Bessemer, faces Beaver Falls at Ellwood City in the season finale. The Tubers rank as one of the most improved machines in the district.

Westminster's Titans move a step nearer to the end of the season by entertaining an ancient foe, Grove City. The tussle shapes up as one of the top attractions.

Bessemer high winds up against Lowellville in the Ohio city.

The local junior high schools and Shenango Township ended their season last week.

As the grid sport nears the finish line, there isn't a local eleven that boasts a clean slate.

Ancient Rivals Clash Saturday Upon Grid Here

Grove City And New Castle Have Met 15 Times Since 1912, Locals Have Won 12

"RED HURRICANE" MAY GET SURPRISE

ANCIENT football rivals, Grove City and New Castle will tangle on Saturday at Taggart Stadium on (Armistic Day.) The kickoff at 2:30 o'clock should find the stands well packed. Since the grid relations were taken up back in 1912 the teams have clashed 15 times. The New Castle boys hold the edge 12 to 3 in victories.

In the fifteen games the "Red Hurricanes" have amassed a total of 347 points to 51 for the Grovers. Coach Joe Hartman is bringing a big Grove City team here Saturday that he thinks can take the measure of the New Castle eleven. Last Saturday the Grovers topped Sharpsville High 14 to 12 and recently held the Sharon High team to a 0-0 deadlock.

Has Fine Backfield

Grove City owns victories over Union High 31 to 7, and Franklin High 44 to 6. The Alliance Aviators defeated Grove City by a small margin. Hartman has a fast and tricky set of backs. They will make it tough for the locals.

As New Castle High trains for the battle, Head Coach Bridenbaugh is having his troubles. Ralph Cenname is still ailing, Ciazza's bad ankle does not respond well to treatment and Freddy McKee still has a cast on his injured right hand.

Grovers Anxious

The New Castle team is not taking the grovers lightly. Any team that holds Sharon even for four periods with no score, must have something besides uniforms. Then, too, any team that can upset that Sharpsville High team must have what it takes. Sharon topped the Sharpsville team 34 to 19 earlier in the year, but couldn't score a solitary touchdown on Grove City. The Hartman coached line is well balanced and strong.

The two teams have not met in football for nine years. Will Grove City be able to dump the "Red Hurricanes." This is just as liable to happen as not. Anyhow, it is going to be a football game well worth seeing.

DOG IS CHOOSEY EATER

(International News Service)

EASTPORT, Me.—A meticulous eater is Jerry, 13-year-old dog, who makes a daily visit to the local fish market for a snack of haddock tail. Jerry inspects the backbone with tails attached very closely, always picks out a haddock and eats only the tail. If no haddock are available the dog will take a very small portion of pollock.

By GEORGE SILLMAN

The opening day is over . . . and all you have to do now is hunt them up and try to get a shot in sideways or whatever angle it takes off. The first day was a great day to many a Nimrod and the days to come will be to others. M. M. "Cy" Ingham did not get his birds on the first day, but Saturday he got the day's limit of two nice "chinks". The sheriff is strickly a bird man, as far as small game is concerned. Don't think for a minute that all the game is shot the first day, not on your life. His party of four went out last Saturday and got a total of seven ringnecks. That makes up for the first three days that they didn't get any. The game is getting pretty cute along about the third or fourth day. Some times they will flush out of gun range and next time you have to almost tramp on their necks to get them up. Speaking for myself on the first day, I had to work, believe-it-or-not. I couldn't think of any excuse that would relieve me out of work, and still enable me to take my shotgun with me while I wanted to "run down to the corner and see a fellow about a horse." So I worked and just thought of all you guys having one swell time. Jack Downing of Highland Heights had his limit of bunnies and one ringneck the first day. Bill Miller and Misses, Highland Heights brought seven rabbits and two chinks to fill up the larder. Bob, Bill and Ervine Young (brothers) of Woodlawn avenue, came home the first day with a total of eleven rabbits, two ringnecks and two squirrels. William Haering reported three rabbits and twenty-five shells spent getting them. So if you fellows heard lots of shooting, it was not all spent on game. A lot of the noise was just in the act of celebration. Clifford Downing, brother of Jack, got the limit of cottontails and one ringneck on the opening day. These brother combinations have something in common. Are they out to set records or don't they like to have the other one show them up. Well it's all legal, and have your fun boys, and I'm sorry I missed out, on the first day. I got my first shooting of the season last Friday afternoon when Jack Downing invited me to go with him. We left for the woods at two o'clock. Jack was just a natural for kicking them up (and missing them too) he would just walk up to one, put it out and miss. I couldn't figure it out. So along about that time the dog, stumbled over a sleeping cottontail which went over the road to a weed patch. We after him, when I spied a car coming up the road. I was trying to be a good sportsman and I opened by gun till the car would pass. Who do you suppose was in that gas buggy? Yeah, the Game Warden "himself." We chatted there awhile when the rabbit crossed beside the car and I was helpless, with the law right beside me. Well those things will happen to the best of hunters. Well on with my hunting. When we came home that night, Jack had four rabbits and I three and one ringneck. So my small game hunting is at an end before it got started, and my plans are for some thing bigger right at this present time, if something don't happen before November 14th. Good ol' bear season is just around the corner and that's sumpin'.

Meeting Date Changed

The regular meeting of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Ass'n should be Tuesday night, November 14, but due to the many bear hunters leaving for the big woods that same day, the meeting will be moved up one night. So don't forget the meeting will be held Monday, November 13 instead. As far as we know it will be held in the City Building, unless something further develops. If a larger hall can be secured it will be announced later. Bob Ford will be back with bigger and better pictures at the next regular meeting. Those of you who were fortunate enough to see the last pictures will know what to look forward to, those who missed them will have a treat in store for them. Leading sportsmen of the state claim that they are absolutely the tops in outdoor films. Many are in natural color to bring forth the many beauties of our wildlife. This year Mr. Ford has pictures of the Pennsylvania Indians and their natural haunts. Pictures of a bear coming out of his den, probably the first time this kind of picture has ever been taken. Mr. Ford has thousands of dollars worth of trick and trap cameras for taking these pictures. Many of the pictures were taken by the game itself.

Sportsmen's Club emblems are now here, and are available at W. E. Ferver's Store, it is announced.

Why The Ballyhoo

Why do they ballyhoo a hunting accident the way they do. A hunter on the other end of the state shoots himself in the big toe, everyone reads about it. Some local person could be injured in an auto accident, and if he was not of some concern, no one knows anything about it. Take 650,000 motorists on a holiday and I'll bet a nickle to a doughnut there would be more ac-

Billy Murray Defeats Moran

Secrete Captures Decision Over Delarado In Good Fight

NICK LA VOLPE WINS FROM BENNY BARTLE

Billy Murray, Cecil flash, decisioned rugged Frankie Moran, South New Castle, in a fast three-round amateur fight in The Arena last night. Murray sent Moran down twice in the first and again in the third stanza. The bout was one in the Parade of Amateur champions staged by the Jefferson A. C.

Last night's Moran-Murray setto was a return battle, Moran having been awarded the decision several weeks ago. When they clashed last night in the opening round Moran was first to land, shooting a right to the head. He rushed Murray, who backed away.

As Moran rushed again, Murray stepped in with a beautifully timed right to the chin. Moran went down but got up without a count. He was wobbly and took several solid whacks to the chin. As Moran lunged forward, he slipped and a short right dropped him to his right knee. He got up instantly.

Murray had far the best of the round but undaunted, Frank rushed Murray when the second round opened. He landed a solid left to Murray's head. They exchanged punches to the head with honors even. Moran swung plenty but Murray made Moran miss. Murray scored when he fought Moran to the ropes.

Billy had the best of the second and when the third opened used his feet advantageously. He circled Moran. In an exchange, he dropped a left to Moran's chin that sent Moran down a third time. Moran got up at four and made a desperate effort to land solidly. Murray sent a right to Moran's face as Moran stepped in. Two more landed in an exchange. They stepped away and Moran sent a left to the head and Murray hit Moran with a right to the jaw as the bell ended the fight.

Good Semi-Final

The Sammy Secrete-Ted Delarado welterweight fight, which Secrete won, proved one of the sweetest amateur boxing bouts yet staged here. The decision given Secrete was unanimous. Delardo kissed the canvas for several seconds in the second, a right to the head upsetting Del.

After arising Delarado landed a right to the head which jarred Sammy no little, and in the third they fought fast and the punches fell like rain drops. At times Del turned southpaw only to end up against the end of Secrete's right to the chin.

Andy Wertz beat Oscar Wright in a 140-pound fight. The battle was a struggle for two chapters but in the third Wertz gave the colored lad, who beat George Simms here, a thorough shellacking.

Benny Loses Hard Fight

The Benny Bartle-Nick LaVolpe fight went to LaVolpe because his judgement of distance was somewhat better and he was more steady on his pins than the light heavyweight champion of Lawrence county.

They swung punches from the floor, ceiling and ropes and the bout had all the earmarks of a street brawl. Science, which neither demonstrated, was out of the picture. However, they fought hard throughout.

Bob Lundy of Pittsburgh knocked out Milt Taylor, Cecil, in the second round, and Pete Spotti beat Jimmy Harper, Pittsburgh. Spotti won in the last two rounds after having been outjabbed and outstepped in the first.

Wins Split Decision

Larry Retardo, Ellwood, was given a split decision over Julius Walt in the second bout. Phil Greer voted for Walt. George Mazza and Referee Tom McMahon gave the award to Larry. It was a hard fight.

Al Dundee, Cecil, and Petey Pope, Youngstown, flyweights and clever staged an attractive, fast opening round with Al winning the award after three rounds.

The referee was Tom McMahon; judges, Phil Greer and State Motor Policeman George Mazza, an ex-boxer; time keeper, Vito Cialella and Billy Fazzone. The boxing show was in charge of Tommy Leach, matchmaker, and Ed. Fritz, of the Jefferson A. C.

Iowa Coach Gives Tips On Football

From a player's standpoint, football ranks as one of the most difficult sports to master.

As for the spectator in the stand, the grid game is a brain-taxer.

To play the game intelligently, an athlete must know the cardinal principles of football.

To watch and enjoy the fascinating sport, a fan likewise must know what the players are doing and why.

Dr. Eddie Anderson, the old Notre Dame end, who took over the coaching reigns of Iowa this season following a brilliant career at Holy Cross, has 60 hints for quarterbacks mimeographed and passes them out to his grid candidates.

Herewith are presented some of the most important tips which may enlighten local fans:

Be alert at all times.

Develop a good memory.

Don't catch punts which can roll back for touchbacks.

Know when not to forward pass.

Don't forward pass to a limping back.

Shoot a play at a dizzy lineman.

When a new lineman enters the game, shoot the first play at him.

Against a strong defensive team, kick often and play for breaks.

Against a strong offensive team, hold the ball as long as possible. The opponent can't score when you carry the ball.

If a play proves successful, use it again and again. Their use will make other plays go on later on.

Maneuver to stay in best position on field.

Call plays in sequence.

When the wind is against your team, stall. Hustle with it in your favor.

When the defensive line tightens, use wide plays. When it spreads, go through.

Save the best forward pass plays for second half.

In offensive territory, use best play on first down. If you make five yards with it, you should be able to make rest in three remaining downs.

Be on the watch for an opportunity to use trick plays.

Be confident of your ability to tackle in the open. However, if at all possible, try to maneuver the ball carrier to the sideline. This gives him but one direction to go.

When playing back, watch for passes and immediately inform team mates by yelling.

Never take anything for granted.

Don't let an eligible pass receiver get behind you.

Sutherland Rumor Of Taking Job At Penn Is Exploded

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—A rumor emanating from New York to the effect that Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland would become head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania next fall was dealt "sudden death" here today.

"George Munger will coach again next year," said Joe Labrum, sports publicity director at Penn. "And," he added, emphatically, "he'll be coach indefinitely, too."

Sutherland, whose Pitt teams generally won national recognition, resigned from the Pittsburgh university last fall. Since then he has been reported signed by several colleges.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Police are after a Seattle driver who creates a shocking situation—literally—when he meets another driver.

Victims reported the shocks were so severe they nearly lost control of their cars.

Joe DiMaggio And Actress Will Wed Sunday, Nov. 19

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Invitations were mailed today for the wedding of Joe DiMaggio, America's No. 1 baseball star, and Dorothy Arnold, blond movie actress. The nuptial date has been set at Sunday, Nov. 19.

This was a denial of a surprise announcement from Duluth, Minn., attributed to the bride's friends, that the slugging New York Yankee outfielder and Miss Arnold would be wed this morning.

The marriage will be solemnized at St. Peter's and St. Paul's church with Joe's brother, Tom, as best man.

DiMaggio, who spent yesterday fishing for striped bass while his fiancee added to her trousseau, said honeymoon plans were undecided.

The popular young couple met in New York more than a year ago. At that time Miss Arnold was a radio singer. She later went to Hollywood to work in pictures.

THE BUMS RUSH

(International News Service)

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Unemployed men who frequent Vancouver's Pioneer Square are whistling "Are There Any More at Home Like You" these days and hoping they can whistle up results. An unidentified woman, asked for "a dime-for-a-cup-of-coffee recently, decided to play no favorites. She began giving away all the money in her purse. When that gave out, she ran into a bank, cashed a check, and started to give away more money. As the crowd of men swelled to about 1,000, the woman tossed away her last handful of quarters and ran for a taxi. Spectators estimated she gave away about $45.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Jottings: One of the oddest happenings of the season was recorded in the Washington-New Castle game. Jimmie Temenski, a substitute, blocked a Washington punt, recovered the ball for a touchdown and then kicked the placement for the seventh point! Albert Pishioneri, former Ellwood City high center, is one of the standouts on Salem's eleven this season. . . .

Sideline Angles: Tommy Harmon, the Michigan ball-o-fire, may be as good as a lot of Granges, but I'm not saying which one. He is not in the same class with the Grange who wore "77" for Illinois back in the mid-twenties. Zuppke, the same fellow who developed the immortal Red, blasted the Harmon balloon to pieces. Those wild rumors about a second "77" faded quickly. . . .

The uncertianty of football was emphasized in Illinoi's victory over Michigan. Heralded as one of the most talented collegiate outfits, Michigan looked like a mediocre club in losing to an eleven which had yet to taste victory. A coach plays an important role. Zuppke, one of the smartest men in football, whipped his squad into the right pitch for the assignment. Next Saturday, this same team may look miserable. Grid teams are not the same from one week to another. . .

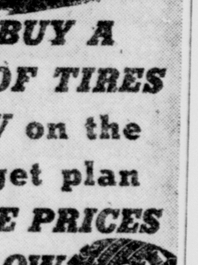

Around the football fronts, the boys are arguing about the best collegiate club in the land. Everyone seems to be slanting towards Tennessee. Notre Dame shapes up second, Cornell in a third spot with Southern California fourth. If our say means anything, the Trojans draw the vote. Blessed with talent that runs three and four deep, I can't see a team that can surpass Howard Jones' latest edition. . . . .

The Trojans will have an opportunity to prove their worth against Notre Dame and probably against Tennessee in the Rose Bowl classic. A victory over both powerhouses will leave no doubt in anyone's mind about the mythical laurels. Snavely's Cornell team is good, but a shade behind the above mentioned teams. . . .

Can you set aside $1.59 to $1.65 per week for a $100 LOAN

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan including all charges on a 18 month plan at Personal Finance Co. And we take no wage assignment.

● $1.59 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new "Special" loan plan of only 2½% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on balances over $100. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly and a good credit record.

● For persons without established credit and employment ratings, or who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan at 3% monthly on unpaid balances of 100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100. Under this plan, setting aside just $1.65 a week will repay everything on a $100 loan in 18 months. Loans from $20 to $300.

Farewell For Pastors Planned

Clergymen And Wives Will Give Luncheon For Rev. Schnebly And Rev. Russell

EVENT ON MONDAY IN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Plans for a luncheon in farewell to Rev. and Mrs. Daniel C. Schnebly of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church and Rev. and Mrs. Elmer G. Russell of the New Castle Reformed Presbyterian church were made Monday at a meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association in the First Presbyterian church.

The luncheon will take place on Monday, November 13, at 12:30 p. m. in the First Christian church on the Diamond. Arrangements are in charge of Rev. Rees T. Williams, Dr. G. S. Bennett and Rev. R. B. Withers of the Ministerial Association, and Mrs. R. B. Withers, Mrs. G. S. Bennett, Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine and Mrs. Thomas B. Shearer of the Ministers Wives club. Reservations are to be made with Rev. Withers no later than Thursday, November 9.

Rev. Schnebly and Rev. Russell, who have resigned their charges and are leaving New Castle, attended their last meeting of the Ministerial Association yesterday, and expressed in a feeling manner their appreciation for the fine programs and the fellowship the association has offered.

A similar double-farewell luncheon was given a few weeks ago for Dr. C. B. Wingerd, former Central Presbyterian minister, and Dr. H. A. McCurdy, former Epworth Methodist minister.

Rev. Archie Gibson presented the Eureka Jubilee Singers, who were heard in several numbers. The opening prayer was given by Rev. W. F. Ratzlaff. Dr. Bennett announced that the Red Cross drive opens next Sunday.

Dr. McIlvaine presented a letter written by Bernard N. Hanlon asking that the Protestant churches of the communty join in an effort for peace in the world through prayer, and suggesting that prayers for peace be offered in all churches next Sunday. The association voted full co-operation in this splendid project.

Dr. F. S. Neigh gave a very scholarly presentation of the theological subject, "Kenosis."

In two weeks the clergymen will hear a talk by Miss Alice Sterling of the public library, arranged for by Rev. P. C. Pearson and the library committee. Rev. Einar Lehto offered benediction.

New Effort For Peace Is Made

By J. JESSURUN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 7.—With the German army massed at their gates and apparently ready for a death thrust against England by way of the lowlands, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of Belgium "raised their voices" in behalf of peace again today.

Acting jointly after a dramatic personal meeting at the Hague last night, the elderly queen and Belgium's youthful king dispatched to all belligerent powers a poignantly worded telegram pleading for restoration of peace before it is too late.

cidents than we had the first day. Maybe it's like airplanes, something new to a lot of people, yet.

Cypher Spied Fox While Hunting

Jimmie Cypher, past president of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Ass'n., while hunting in the vicinity of New Wilmington ran across a red fox in a woods. Having only his trusty .410 ga. shotgun with him Reynard gained too much ground before the hunter could draw a bead on the fatal spot. We'll have to send Gibby and Scott out to run him down some time later.

Tin City Boys Getting Ready

The local Tin City Hunting Club will again be in the limelight. Preparations are being made for the opening of bear season in the Rich Valley. Ed. Rainey, the scout for the club will soon take for the hills to get camp in shape to receive the boys next Tuesday. He has some job. Last year he had two porkeys in camp, and they would not be chased into the cold. Mr. Peasley took pity on the poor animals and put them up in his barn until after hunting season. Maybe Ed. will have two porkey's and their families to move out so the boys can make camp. Where's Elmer going? Oh he'll be one of our neighbors up on Elk Run. They spent a week fixing up Camp Yoho putting on a new roof and etc. Elmer doesn't think much of those dams the sportsmen put up this summer. He said the beer cans would soon rust out and the dams would let go. Maybe they'd better try something more substantial next time.

Woodcock Season Over

Say fellows read your game laws. Woodcock season ended October 31st. Better be careful. I saw a man take a shot at one Friday and I tried to be as nice as I could, and told him the season was over. He thought it was up until the last of November. Don't forget quail and grouse go out Nov. 21st instead of last of November. Be careful and save your dough. Until next Tuesday, Good luck and good hunting.

U. S. Naval Crash Boats Search Water Near Honolulu For Body Of Mate

(International News Service)

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 7—U. S. navy crash boats today searched for the body of Chief Aviationist's Mate W. T. Rhodes of San Diego, lost when the observation plane from the aircraft carrier Enterprise crashed off Barber's Point, near Honolulu.

The pilot, Lieut. W. R. Wallis, was rescued after he had parachuted to safety and remained afloat for 40 minutes. Lieut. Wallis suffered slight burns.

He said the plane caught on fire while on a routine flight. Lieut. Wallis said he ordered Rhodes to "bail out," and then did so himself.

Navy patrol planes and crash boats sped to his rescue but could find no trace of Rhodes.

Celebration At Leesburg Church

Meetings Next Week In Observance Of 10th Anniversary Of Church Dedication

HOMECOMING DAY ON NOVEMBER 19

Thursday, November 16, will mark the 10th anniversary of the dedication of the present Leesburg Presbyterian church. There has been a Presbyterian congregation in Leesburg ever since 1856 and it outgrew two other church buildings.

Rev. W. A. Lloyd, the pastor, announces a week of gospel meetings in celebration of and in thankfulness for this first decade in the present fine edifice and a homecoming day. Meetings will be held each night from November 12 to 19, with the exception of Saturday Opening at 8 o'clock, they will be in charge of Rev. and Mrs. J. C Fulton of Plaingrove, who will also lead the music. All who enjoy good singing will experience a real treat.

Next Sunday morning, November 12, Rev. Fulton will preach at 11 o'clock. The young people's societies will meet at 7 p. m. and at 8 o'clock Mrs. Fulton will bring the message. Her subject will be "The Gospel in a Nut Shell." This will be an object or illustrated sermon. Mrs. Fulton is an inspiring children's evangelist and has traveled extensively with noted evangelistic parties, among them the "Bob" Jones and the Dibble parties.

Sunday, November 19, will be homecoming day, when church members, friends, and former pastors will gather for a basket dinner at noon in the social room of the church, and at 2:30 p. m. attend a fellowship service.

Leesburg Presbyterians are inviting their friends of Leesburg and all surrounding communities to attend these services, Rev. Lloyd said today.

Belgian Council Called Into Session

Belgium Confronted With Another Charge Of Danger To Neutrality

(International News Service)

BRUSSELS, Nov. 7.—Confronted with another German charge that Belgium is in danger of forfeiting her status as a neutral, the ministerial council was summoned for 5:30 p. m., today to discuss the matter, and to hear a report on the discussions between King Leopold and Queen Wilhelmina at The Hague.

Leopold and Foreign Minister Henri Spaak were due back just before the meeting.

Germany, it was learned, notified Belgium it would be considered a breach of Belgian neutrality if Poles were allowed to leave a neutral country and join the forces of belligerents.

(Exchange Telegraph reported unconfirmed rumors from Amsterdam today that Germany served an economic ultimatum on Belgium and Holland.

(Confidental Belgian sources in Paris revealed to International News Service yesterday that a communication "in the nature of an ultimatum" was received in Brussels from Germany. The note, it was said, warned that Germany would take it as an "unfriendly act" if Belgium entered any new commitments.

(Germany previously warned Belgium that permitting Allied planes to fly over the country endangered Belgium's neutral status, and some Allied quarters saw in these repeated admonitions the groundwork for a German military move through the low countries.)

If you are thinking of beautifying your lawn next summer this is the proper time to plant trees, especially evergreens. By planting them now there is ample opportunity for the soil to pack around the roots during the winter, so that they will quickly take hold when spring comes. Maple and other trees planted in the fall will do better than when planted in the spring.

Preparations for taking care of Lawrence county highways during the winter are to be seen at nearly every hilltop, where piles of ashes are in readiness. Marcus Feuchtwanger To Be Honored Sunday

Fifty years of active service in the B'Nai B'rith will be publicly acknowledged Sunday night, November 12, when New Castle Lodge 609 of the organization, will hold a testimonial dinner in The Castleton Hotel honoring Marcus Feuchtwanger.

There are few members in the United States who have held membership that long in the B'Nai B'Rith and fewer yet who have been and are still as active as is Mr. Feuchtwanger. He is a past president of the local chapter and is a past president of District 3, which comprises Pennsylvania, Delaware and West Virginia.

A Builder

In his half century of service to the order Mr. Feuchtwanger has been one of the reasons why it has grown in size and influence. Never content to be merely a member he has given his time and energies to the lodge and on Sunday can look back over the years with a feeling of satisfaction of a service well rendered.

For the dinner district officials from the three states will be present as well as a number of national officials. The program has not been set definitely as yet, but the principal speaker will be Rabbi Isadore Rosenthal of Lancaster, Pa.

A committee has been at work for several weeks arranging the details of the dinner. Abe Levine is

County Commissioners Re-elected By Democrats—Republican District Attorney Wins

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 8. — The Democratic party took over every office in the city of Pittsburgh today and re-elected its two county commissioners, John J. Kane and George Rankin, Jr., late returns from yesterday's elections indicated.

For a while, it looked like the jubilant Democrats might take over the entire slate in the county, but late returns from the boroughs and townships proved life savers for five incumbent Republican county officials and threatened two county offices now held by Democrats.

Latest returns in the commissionership race, 898 districts out of 982, gave the following: John J. Kane, Dem., 230,124; George Rankin, Jr., Dem., 223,380; John S. Herron, Rep., 200,590; James F. Malone, Rep., 195,100.

Republicans Retain Control Of Municipal Government In Tuesday Voting

JUDGE LAMBERTON ELECTED AS MAYOR

By WATSON FENIMORE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—True to a tradition of 59 years' standing, Philadelphia remained Republican in municipal government today on the basis of virtually complete returns from yesterday's mayoralty election.

Sweeping all row candidates and 20 of the 22 members of city council to victory with him, former Judge Robert E. Lamberton, Republican candidate for chief executiveship of the nation's third largest city, defeated Dr. Robert C. White, Democratic-Fusion standard bearer.

With approximately 750,000 votes cast in one of Philadelphia's heaviest municipal elections, Lamberton was given a majority of 30,459 on the basis of late returns this morning.

The vote was:
Lamberton—390,448
White—359,989.

Republicans also elected 10 of the 16 magistrates voted upon, but one significant Democratic victory occurred in the election of a Democratic representative from the 4th congressional district in a special race. Republicans, however, countered by winning a special state senate election.

Lamberton's mayoralty victory followed a bitter campaign in which municipal issues were dominant, the Democrats harking back to defeat of a proposed new city charter by Republicans in the last state legislative session and claiming a Fusion slate to capture charter votes.

Believe Pension Issue Sidetracked As Factor In National Campaign

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The off-year election slipped quietly into history today after apparently sidetracking the old age pension issue from the coming presidential campaign but without revealing any definite trend for 1940.

Democratic and Republican politicos saw cause for rejoicing in the varied election returns. While clashing over the portend of other results, chieftains of both major parties hailed the overwhelming opposition of California and Ohio voters to large state pensions as definitely taking that question out of the 1940 campaign.

Feared Issue

There had been a deep fear in Washington that the old age pension issue might become of such national moment by 1940 as to force the major parties to declare in their platforms on the question of increasing old age pensions This fear was heightened somewhat when

Pension Plan Loses In Ohio

Bigelow Pension Plan Defeated By Large Vote On Tuesday

SPONSOR SAYS PLAN NOT DEAD

By CARL TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—Like a prizefighter recovering from a knockout punch, the Rev. Herbert S. Bigelow served notice today that he will attempt to stage a comeback for his badly beaten "$50 at 60" pension plan in 1940.

The Cincinnati minister-politician, whose attempt to garantee every Ohioan over 60 a $50 a month income and every married couple of that age, $80 monthly, was defeat by a margin of about 3.6 to 1, contended the knockout was a technical one.

Lethal Punch

It was due, as Bigelow put it, to misrepresentation of the effect his proposal would have upon Ohio's tax structure, although his opponents described the voters' lethal punch as a "tribute to the good judgment of the voters of this state".

Actually the pension plan was dealt a staggering blow in the first round, from which it never recovered. First returns showed it trailing by about 3 to 1 and the margin of defeat never diminished as more complete reports came in.

With only 559 of the state's 8,589 precincts missing, the vote on the Bigelow pension plan stood:

For the plan, 418,078; against, 1,393,615.

On the same ballot and carried down to defeat with the pension amendment were three other issues,

Maritime Commission Official Says Decision Is Up To Roosevelt

FINAL DECISION BEING HELD UP

By LEON W. SHLOSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—Final decision whether privately-owned American vessels shall be allowed to transport war materials to Europe's belligerents under flags of other countries, rests with President Roosevelt, a high official of the U. S. Martime Commission revealed today.

The commission, it was learned, is convinced it was right in approving "in principle" the application of the U. S Lines to transfer to Panamanian registry eight of its vessels, but is willing to accept guidance from the chief executive in reaching a final decision because an important matter of public policy is involved.

The president, returning to the capital today from Hyde Park, N. Y., was expected to confer both with members of the commission and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Yesterday Hull voiced opposition to approval of the U. S. Lines application as an impairment of American neutrality. Hull's statement engendered speculation whether Mr. Roosevelt and his number one cabinet officer were in open disagreement on the subject.

RECORD NUMBER OF VOTES CAST

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8—Burned to a crisp, California's "ham and eggs" old age pension plan was barely visible today under an avalanche of ballots marked "no".

The electorate of the Golden State voted the famous plan down at yesterday's special election by a decisive margin and late ballot counts in tardy counties today only enhanced the defeat.

About 80 per cent of the state's 3,605,907 registered voters, stirred by tremendous campaigns, turned up at the polls to oppose "ham and eggs" in a ratio of about 2 to 1.

Every Republican candidate for city office piled up a large lead over his Democratic opponent and in the case of the mayor-elect, the Republican candidate, Charles B. "Don't imagine there is going to be any surprise from the enemy in this war...because we have certainly got one for him . . .

Italian Paper In Anti-Russian Attack

Soviet Balkan Claim Denied

"Destructive Plan Of Action" Is Gaining Control Of Soviet Government

WORLD UPRISING AIM OF RUSSIA

(International News Service)

ROME, Nov. 8.—Communism with a "destructive plan of action", is gaining control of the Soviet government, Virginio Gayda, authoritative Italian spokesman, wrote in the Giornale D'Italia.

In the most violent anti-Russian attack since outbreak of the war, Gayda said:

"The Communist International places in the prisoner's dock beside the two imperialist democracies Hitlerian Germany, which the Moscow government previously treated as an ally.

"This means that there is a lack of definite agreement between Moscow and Berlin and that communism, with a destructive plan of action, is gaining control of the Soviet government."

Accuse Communists

Gayda accused the Communists of using "imperialist power" to foment war and revolution in Spain, China, outer Mongolia and elsewhere, with the ultimate aim of achieving a world-wide Red uprising.

The Italian spokesman denied Russia's claim of guardianship of peace in the Balkans, declaring that this role rightfully belongs to Italy.

"It was Italy's abstention from any act of belligerency which restricted the European conflict, already extended by Russian intervention," Gayda said.

Repudiating the Russian charge that the "Italian Bourgeoisie" is awaiting the ripe moment to seize war spoils, he said:

"This intention is exclusively Russia's. The Soviets, profiting from Germany's lightning victory, marched into defenseless Poland."

The dinner is a graceful gesture upon the part of the membership of the local lodge. It honors a man who was a pioneer in the work before some of the present officers and leaders were born. In addition to his B'Nai B'Rith work Mr. Feuchtwanger has been active in other things. He is the president of Temple Israel and has been since it was organized, he is the chairman of the Anti-Defamation League, president of the board for the Margaret Henry Home and has been active in such other civic ventures as the Community Chest and the American Red Cross. ALLEGHENY COUNTY RESULT DIVIDED ser. Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster and Clerk of Courts Alvin E. Dillman.

In the race for district attorney, 848 out of 982 districts in the county gave: Park, 202,086; Council President James L. O'Toole, 186,309. For county controller, 848 districts gave: Woodside, 199,830; Twing Brooks, 181,629.

The two Democratic offices threatened were those of Register of Wills John H. Huston, where Arthur J. Rooney, Republican, was putting up a stiff fight, and the county treasurer's office, where Dr. John J. McLean had a small lead over former County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern.

The Republicans got some consolation out of the fact that James G. Fulton, Republican candidate for the state senate, 45th district, held a comfortable lead over John F. Cox, Democrat.

In addition, there will be a splendid program of vaudeville, motion pictures and dancing.

Arrangements have been made for another good old-fashioned reunion, and a large attendance of the membership, not only from New Castle, but from surrounding points in the district, is expected, Commander-in-Chief John E. Elliott stated today.

The response has been greater than was expected, and a large class of candidates is looked for during the reunion, Mr. Elliott states.

cities. As late as 1833 Philadelphia had nearly two hundred brokers, with agents all over the state. In the same year an act was passed entirely abolishing lotteries. Now we don't seem to be bothered with any but the illegal "numbers" racket.

Old grist mills of the county figured here in a recent case in court. In this connection Pa Newc has learned that the first grist mill in Pennsylvania was built by Colonel John Prince, in 1643 at Tinicum. Richard Townsend, who came from England with William Penn, built the first gristmill within the present limits of Philadelphia. Pa Newc hasn't learned who built the first grist mill in Lawrence county, but is pursuing his investigations.

If Admiral Byrd has as much trouble navigating his snow cruiser over the antarctic snows as the drivers have in getting it over our highways, he's going to have a lot of trouble in his hands. Nearly every day something has gone wrong with the cruiser, the latest mishap being in Erie where new motors were installed. The cruiser has still about six hundred miles to go before reaching Boston, and we'll likely be hearing more about it. We wonder what they'll do with that 35-ton ship if it gets stuck in a snow drift at the South Pole?

Death of Dr. C. M. Wilson, 84, oldest physician in Venango county, recalls that there are not many left of those old time doctors who used a horse and buggy in making their calls. Time was when every village in Lawrence county had at least one doctor, and some of them two or three. Now there are quite a number of villages with no doctor. When a person in the rural districts gets sick, if there is no doctor in a nearby village, it only takes a few minutes to summon one from New Castle. But like as not the patient will be bundled up and brought to one of our hospitals. Young doctors used to locate in villages to get their initial practice, but now it's the cities that attract them. One of the qualities that endeared Dr. Wilson to his community, is said to have been his willingness to respond to calls at all hours of the night and in all kinds of weather. Few practicing physicians of today have had the experience of being called to make a journey over mud roads on a rainy night, and consequently find it hard to appreciate the hardships of the doctors of the old school. At any rate it's a safe wager that they're not yearning for the experience.

PENSION PLAN LOSES IN OHIO

one by Bigelow to liberalize the initiative and referendum system, a proposal to create a state board of education with power to name the education director, and the Bricker administration's new civil service act.

Each of the four measures suffered crushing blows, though the two Bigelow admendments made a much less creditable showing than the other two.

Bigelow conceded defeat of both his proposals when the count was half complete. At his home in Cincinnati last night he said:

"We shall start again tomorrow to file new petitions to present the matter again next year.

"The money, newspapers and radio were against the poor people."

But the Ohio emergency committee which directed the successful campaign against the ex-congressman's measures placed an entirely different interpretation upon the election outcome.

"This landslide vote against two radical proposals," said B. B. Brumley, committee chairman, "serves notice that Ohio citizens will not be deluded by suggestions of this kind, either now or in the future.

"America is still America—in Ohio."

Amidst 132 varieties of chrysanthemums in the Hennon greenhouses at Chewton, members of the Men's Garden club, their wives, and a group of guests, numbering about 82, gathered for the club's annual chicken dinner and 'mum show, Tuesday evening.

The dinner, cooked by women of the Chewton church, was brought three-fourths of a mile for the event, and when served by girls from the church, was still piping hot. Corsages for the women and boutonnieres for the men marked each place as favors.

Following the invocation by Irvine A. Balph, Prof. Charles G. Lindner, president of the Men's Garden Club welcomed the group and introduced Dr. George L. Dixon, president of the Steel City Garden club of Youngstown, who, in turn, introduced the Youngstown delegation, including Mrs. Stubblefield, president of the Youngstown Garden Forum.

HOLLAND'S ALLIES

GERMAN divisions are massed in solid array at Duseldorf, Cologne and Aachen, on the Dutch border. There is no good reason why they should occupy these positions unless a swift sweep toward the channel ports, or a downward thrust through Holland and Belgium into France, is contemplated. Obviously, they are poised for offensive, and not defensive, operations.

The Netherlands has a small army, trained efficiently and equipped adequately. If dependent upon her military resources, however, the land would swiftly be conquered. Throughout the course of her history, Holland has relied principally upon water and mud for her defense against aggression.

Even now, the Dutch, with their elaborate system of dykes and dams, are bringing their lowlands, from the Zuyder Zee to the Rhine and from the Rhine to the Albert Canal, in Belgium, to the point of saturation, impassable by infantry, by truck or artillery.

Small in area and in numerical power, the Dutch are, nevertheless, far from defenseless, as aggressors will find once the business of invasion started.

THE PINCH OF HUNGER

It has become the vogue to view the current war with something in the nature of ironic amusement and even to question whether, in the strict sense of the word, it is really a war. Absence of the customary death and destruction has made it posible to consider the conflict rather light-heartedly.

Notwithstanding the rather free and easy aspects it may present to the outside world, however, the war in Europe, while different in major respects, is, nevertheless, a grim business, even in its present initial stages, and, in addition, there is the imminent possibility that its whole character soon will be transformed and that it will revert to the type of 25 years ago, with its own Somme and Marne, Passachendaele and Verdun.

Even now, however, the war is assuming an uncomfortable nature. Britain has started a move for rationing food, which means that the U-boat operations are not without effect, while in Germany it is said the shortage has assumed serious proportions, even though the war is only eight weeks old, and the civilian population is feeling the pinch.

The German people, according to authoritative reports, have an abundance of bread, which is of an inferior quality, and potatoes. But they cannot remain healthy on bread and potatoes. Civilian rations are far short in fats and meats. The extreme sparsity of butter, other fats, eggs and milk—with the vitamins they contain—and of other vitamin foods, such as citrus fruits, raises a major problem of health.

Such foods are needed to produce the energy to bolster up resistance against disease. They have inevitably a large bearing on morale. Even now the psychological effect of the food shortage is one of great depression, especially with respect to the adult population that recalls the terrible hardships of the last war.

The war, accordingly, is not pleasant, harmless or amusing, even though the dead may not be piled high on a hundred battlefields. Soon, if thousands of tons of food continue to be sent to the bottom of the seas and the blockade of Germany remains unbroken, gaunt-eyed, hollow-cheeked men and women and emaciated children will begin to appear.

They will be the casualties of this strange, unprecedented war, just as much so are if they fell piesced by bullets while taking a trench or a battered village.

BURGOMASTER MAX, WORLD WAR HERO

If in Europe's strange new war the frontiers of neutral Belgium again are threatened by Germany's armies, there will be no Burgomaster Max of Brussels to defy Hitler's troops as he defied the Kaiser's Uhlans twenty-five years ago. Death has silenced the voice and taken away the valiant spirit of the daring man who was the first world-famed hero of the Great War.

How Adolphe Max, Burgomaster of Brussels, challenged the invading Prussians and made them appear ridiculous; how he heartened his countrymen amid the tragedies at Liege, Dinant and Namur and the bitter fighting along the Yser; how he tore down the posters and proclamations with which the Germans plastered Brussels; how he was arrested in September, 1914, and held prisoner until he escaped two days after the Armistice in 1918—all this is history, the kind of history that is remembered.

But Max, idol of Belgium, was not a remote, aloof, national hero. After the war, as well as before it, he was Burgomaster of Bussels, having rejected the premiership and a barony. He was jovial and at ease whether when entertaining royalty or when mixing with obscure and homely folk. When the mountain-climbing King Albert fell to his death and when King Leopold's beautiful Queen, Astrid, died in a motor tragedy it was "Our Max" who typified the sorrow of the Belgians.

Burgomaster Max is gone, but the example of this doubhty man's courage and gallantry remains an inspiration to his own countrymen and to all peoples whose rights and liberties are shadowed by autocracy and despotism.

NO GLAMOR IN THIS JOB

There will be no glamor in the life of Virginia Capt Rota, youthful and attractive dancer, for at least the next five years, Miss Rota's brief career as a spy, a 1939 Mata Hart, was brutally ended by a Swiss court that sentenced her to five years in prison.

Like so many others, the naive dancer regarded the life of a spy as one, long and glorious adventure. She joined the espionage ring in Switzerland, she said, "just for the fun of it." Her speedy capture and imprisonment have wiped out all the illusions she had about the spying racket.

The life of a spy is neither glorious nor glamorous. It is a thankless profession. There is no reward if you succeed; no one to help if you fail. The mystery which necessarily surrounds it will probably continue to lure a few adventurous souls as long as they are led to believe intrigue is a thrilling business. The story of Mata Hari,, despite its wide publicity, is really a rather dull document.

A general married his stenographer; conservative officers complained to Hitler; he fired them and thereafter ran wild. Thus a woman gets the blame, as usual.

If Stalin's servants over here manage to establish the Russian system, they're going to miss the good old days when a fellow could strike without getting shot

The Parent Problem

PARENTS ROLE IN KEEPING CHILD HONEST

CHILDREN from the best homes have frequent experiences at handling money which belongs to others of their group. It may be at Sunday school, in a club or at school. Naturally, the child who appears to be the most unselfish, public-spirited and dependable is first to be chosen to collect money from the group concerned.

Beginning in the primary grades at school, the children are asked to bring pennies, nickels, dimes, for the Junior Red Cross. Community Chest, flowers for a sick child, the school paper and all sorts of desirable materials and services for the group. In the junior and senior high schools the amount of money collected by one or more students in the home room totals a good many dollars in a term. So also in a Scout troop, Campfire, Hi-Y, Sunday school class or similar organizations. In addition, many a child is induced to sell tickets and materials for his organization.

As a rule, the child entrusted with this sort of responsibility has very little guidance; his records and funds are seldom checked and audited by an older and more experienced person.

May Be Careless

What happens? The youngster collecting money from his group or selling tickets for his organization may not keep a careful record of the money received. He may trust to his memory or write the items down on a bit of paper easily lost. He may be allowed to keep the funds about as long as he likes or turn them over to the proper person irregularly.

With considerable money in his hands, he is tempted to spend this money for personal needs and luxuries, meaning, of course, to replace it later—in other words, appropriating public funds for private use; being innocently practiced in embezzlement. When at last the funds are demanded of him and he is found short, his parents properly are called upon to make up the shortage. Then there is embarrassment to all concerned. Worse still is the damage done to the moral character of the child.

Let me entreat public school and Sunday school teachers, leaders of Scouts, clubs and similar groups to guide those youths who are entrusted with collecting and keeping money for the group, so that these fine youngsters won't be tempted to deceive and to practice in dishonesty.

What Parents Can Do

What might we parents do about this matter? As soon as you discover that your child is entrusted with collecting and keeping funds of others, induce him to keep very accurate accounts of all receipts and expenditures in a separate book, providing him, if necessary with such a book. Furthermore, without suggesting suspiciousness, but merely as a matter of business routine and business training, have him check over this book and count his money with you.

Be sure to have him keep the money in a safe place, separate from all other funds. Lead him to see that he must never spend a penny of the money on himself, that to do so would not be honest. As he reveals carefulness in the keeping of these accounts and funds, approve him heartily for his achievements.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

BOYHOOD REMINISCENCE

One cold October day at Port Austin where we stay
For the summer I went calling on the druggist of the town.
When I questioned "where is he"
Mrs. Pittwood said to me:
"Jack is putting up the stove which last springtime he took down."

Since the time I was a lad, I'd forgotten people had Such a grim and dismal duty every autumn to perform
So I said: "I'll wander back and just take a look at Jack
At his annual performance to make sure of keeping warm."

There he stood, as once stood dad, and the self-same look he had
As he held two lengths of stove pipe which refused to join at all.
And I'll swear from head to foot he was smeared with last year's soot
Just as always was my father at that duty every fall.

And I chuckled as I heard him repeat the very word
Which my father used to mutter as to link the pipes he strove.
And I'll vow I thought that day I could hear my mother say:
"Son, you mustn't watch your father when he's putting up the stove."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

"My nose is far too big for my face. What can I do to make it look smaller?" asks a poor dear. My advice: Avoid turbans, severe tailored hats, hair parted in the middle, drawn straight back from the forehead or dressed high on your head. Part your hair on the side, build it out in a soft, rather large mass and bring it out over your forehead to balance your nose. Wear a hat with a brim, which may be wider in front than behind and let there be trimming in the front. Thus you will greatly improve the effect of your profile as well as your front view. Most important of all do not concentrate too much on the irregularity of your nose. After effecting these suggestions, forget about it.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I have been invited to a debutante's ball to be given at a fashionable hotel. What is correct for me to wear? I have no tailcoat. May I wear a tuxedo?—College Boy.

Answer: A ball is the most formal type of social function, calling for the most formal type of evening dress—swallowtail coat, trousers to match, white waistcoat, patent leather pumps or oxfords, high silk hat. If possible, you should wear these items of full evening dress. If you cannot do this, your dinner jacket will be the next best thing. But I am afraid the latter attire will make you very conspicuous, especially if the host, hostess and guests are wealthy and socially prominent, in which case they will undoubtedly be in full evening dress. Check up on what your men friends will wear to this ball, and if a number of them will wear dinner jackets (tuxedos) you may save yourself the expense of a tailcoat and its necessary accessories.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Speaking of corn shucking, which no one was at the moment, we recall hearing a couple of chaps talking about their exploits one day.

"I was the best shucker in all of Iowa," said one. "Why I recall one day I was shucking down a row, and you should have seen the corn fly."

"How do I know you was so fast?" asked the other.

"Well I can prove it," said the champion shucker. "Things were gong so fast that I accidentally reached down, took holt of my own foot and threw myself into the wagon. Then I just got straightened out in time to get hit by six ears of corn that was still in the air."

The United States doesn't realize how bad a drouth it's had in recent months, Senator John H. Bankhead informs us.

Why don't we realize it?

Why, says the Alabama solon, we don't realize it because our newspapers haven't printed anything all summer except stuff about the European situation and, during the autumn, about the war and our neutrality debate, entirely disregarding domestic conditions.

The Agriculture Department agrees with Senator Bankhead.

The department's story is that the dust storms we've had in the dry belt heretofore will be recalled as damp weather in comparison with what we've got coming unless we get barrelsful of rain in the near future, or huge quantities of snow, to melt in the early springtime.

It's predicted that 25 per cent of our population in 29 states will be afflicted with short crops in 1940, from present indications.

Weather Bureau Agrees

It sounds strange, considering stories of overproduction of our farm stuff. Nevertheless, Senator Bankhead, who's chairman of the upper congressional chamber's committee on irrigation and reclamation, vouches for it. The weather bureau indorses him.

Western Kansas is said to be the worst spot.

A generation ago "dry-farming" was preached in the semi-arid West.

There was a weekly newspaper, known as Campbell's Soil Culture, which boosted this doctrine. I worked for it in its day. I believed in it, not knowing anything about "soil culture". I don't believe that many farmers knew, either.

The idea was this:

Plough very deeply. Then pulverize two or three inches of the surface into dust. Probably not much rain would fall on the dust blanket, but the blanket was depended on to sop up every bit of moisture it did get—to keep the juice from evaporating, and let it seep through into the dirt underneath.

The scheme worked pretty well for a while.

Then western winds began to blow the dust blanket off. O. K., the farmers simply pulverized a few successive inches into the face of the earth. But finally they got down to what's classed as hardpan. No productive soil remained, for moisture to soak into.

Crops Versus Grazing

Some of this country was more or less adapted to crops. It didnt need any tinkering. It would grow wheat and corn and miscellaneous vegetation anyway.

Some of it, in the semi-arid region, needed to be left in the form of turf, for cattle to chew on. The turf held the surface down to a pastoral terra firma. When it blew off, nothing was left for cattle, and neither was anything left to grow crops on.

The notions all right, but belated.

Maybe the Sahara desert could have been regulated, if taken in hand promptly.

Anyway, the subjects drowned out right now by foreign complications.

Senator Bankhead very properly calls attention to the fact that our own weather concerns us.

Some authorities say that we could, if we tried, make longer-in-advance forecasts. Thats problematic. Director Charles G. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution looks on into the sun's cycles. They're about 11 years at a clatter

This is weather, y'understand. Not any other kind of prophesy.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT
Copyright, 1939, by The Baltimore Sun

Effects Of A Blast

Washington, Nov. 8.

THE point has been reached where either for a cause or a candidate Mr. John L. Lewis is not an unmixed prolitical asset. The saturation of his C.I.O. organization with Communism and his personal identifcation with the sit-down strike attaches a certain liability to his support. When, recently, he assailed Vice President Garner it was a question whether he had not done that shrewd old gentleman more good than harm.

NEVERTHELESS, it must be admitted that in the blast by which he wrecked the so-called "Western Progressive Conference," which was being furtively manipulated by two federal jobholders in the interest of a "third term," he did a completely devastating job. The conference has been called off. The manipulators and their undercover backers have run to cover and the little "inner circle" group, to say nothing of various members of the Roosevelt family, are left in a state of impotent rage.

AS the scene of the wreckage is surveyed, the results accomplished by Mr. Lewis are truly remarkable. Not in a long time has one man in a single letter succeeded in causing as much acute embarrassment among as many people. For example, there are Attorney General Murphy and Secretary of Labor Perkins. They ought to be embarrassed if they are not, because Mr. Lewis revealed the fact that a Mr. Norman N. Littel, an assistant attorney general, and a Mr. M. E. Dikock, an assistant secretary of labor, in what seems to be clear violation of the Hatch Act, were managing this movement from Washington at the time Mr. Roosevelt was proclaiming his disinterested nonpartisanship to the country. .

ANYONE who wants to think that these officials engage in this sort of activity without at least the tacit approval of their bosses or that their bosses give that sort of approval without knowing it to be all right at the White House is entitled to his opinion, but it isn't very reasonable. The fact is that what Mr. Littel and Mr. Dikock were doing was fully known by the Corcoran-Cohen group as well as by the heads of their departments—and encouraged by them, which shows exactly how phony was the "nonpartisanship" of the Administration during the embargo fight—or at any other time. It was recently stated in this place that at no time during that fight did Mr. Roosevelt's aides slacken their political activity. Mr. Lewis has done a service in submitting the proof.

THEN, there certainly should be embarrassment in the Roosevelt

DANGER SIGNALS

The greatest danger to the people of the United States at the present time is caused by the tremendous load of public and private debt that is accumulating, and the problem of complying with the increasing demands for more relief is slowly but surely leading us to a crisis that will mean the complete collapse of our social, economic and political system—the end of civilization itself.

In the state of Oklahoma alone there are 1,036,744 of the state's entire population of two and one-half million on charity (these figures are the last available.)

If these conditions are going to be corrected without a breakdown, then the genuine and deserving reliefers themselves will have to take the initiative by reducing their demands for "more and bigger relief, and not only try to get along on less, but to make every effort to re-establish themselves on an independent basis.

As long as these millions of reliefers permit themselves to be led around by the nose by these Communistic agitators and slick schemers for some short cut to prosperity, their grief and suffering will only be intensified.

No one seems to dare tell the "poor reliefer" that he is being duped, and that the government cupboard is all but bare. No one has warned the reliefers that when hell once breaks loose, every one of these demagogues and schemers is going to be too busy trying to save his own hide to look out for anyone else.

If people would calm down and relax, and take a job even though it is tough, humble and poorly paid for the time being, they will be doing far more toward restoring their own happiness than they will by wallowing and gloating over "Designs in Scarlet" or "Grapes of Wrath," and following those pink and scarlet palookas who are trying to change our economic system and our form of government.

Communist strategy is first to wreck a country, then take it.

British Look To Sky And Wonder

English Residents Perplexed At Enemy's Delay In Raiding Island

WONDER WHEN NAZIS WILL COME

By SYDNEY CRAWFORD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—England is waiting for the bombers.

Clerks, business men, housewives and farmhands gather round after their days work not to discuss the latest news from the Western Front or the latest diplomatic jockeying among the nations of Europe but to ask: "When will the bombers come?"

England has not yet recovered from the surprise that no mighty fleet of German bombers was despatched to raid England immediately on the outbreak of the war.

Ever since the inception of war, thousands of air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen and women, and special war reserve policemen have been idly pacing the streets of London waiting for air raids.

Nervous old ladies have slept in their clothes in readiness to rush down to the family air raid shelter. Whole families have moved in on their next door neighbor so that they may be together when a raid comes.

See Bombing Raids Delayed

Air experts in Britain now believe that there will be no large bombing raids on England for at least several months.

They give their reasons as:

1. Britain's highly organized defenses will prove too great a barrier to the attacking planes.

2. Britain will retaliate speedily to any German raids. These retaliatory raids will be very successful against a Germany shown unprepared by the recent reconnaissance flights of the Allies, it is claimed.

3. Both sides will need all available machines to strive for mastery of the air on the Western Front.

Elaborating these arguments they state that German air raids had ceased in the last war by 1917, when Britain's ground defenses had been completed and the raiders found that their losses were far greater than their gains. Britain has since progressed enormously in her home defenses and has started the present war with the whole country manned and alert for any attack.

Bases Further Away

At the same time German raiders have a far greater distance to go before they reach England. In the last war they were able to take off from bases in Belgium, less than 200 miles away.

England can indulge in retaliatory attacks on Rhineland towns as Cologne and Coblentz, air experts claim. Her reconnaissance flights over cities like Berlin and those in northwest Germany could be easily replaced by bombing raids, they pointed out.

Mastery of the air on the battle-front will be one of the most important factors in winning this war, the experts claim.

With control of the air, heavy troop concentrations of the opposing side could be observed and scattered by planes bombing and machine-gunning the soldiers.

Surprise attacks by daylight could be frustrated and the bringing up of heavy artillery would be made impossible by the constant bombing and dislocating of routes.

Air Superiority Sought

Both sdes would thus attempt to conserve their entire air fleet in order to attain this superiority, the theory runs. A large number of bombing and fighting planes, if destroyed while attempting to raid England, would help to swing over the mastery of the air to the Allies.

It is possible and indeed probable that Hitler may consider it worthwhile risking a few valuable planes on such bombing raids on England in an effort to shake the morale of the people and dislocate all communications.

But the vision of thousands of planes coming over in constant waves on London is still hovering before the eyes of a people, who, by a stroke of irony, are now lining up at their local cinemas to see a parody of the present war—"Idiot's Delight."

Red Cross Friend To Doughboy In Peace As Well As War-Time

Because the efficiency of America's military forces often depends upon the quick solution of the enlisted man's personal and home problems, trained Red Cross workers are stationed at military posts to give sympathetic ccunsel and aid. Through cooperation with Red Cross chapters in the men's home towns, speedy and lasting solution of knotty social and economic difficulties were effected last year in 41,125 cases.

Typical conditions which undermine the enlisted man's efficiency include sickness at home, family problems and inability to finance hospitalization of loved ones.

To fulfill its charter obligations the American Red Cross also gives vital aid to disabled veterans and their families. Workers in 3,479 Red Cross chapters last year dealt with 150,606 deserving cases. They were helped in preparing and presenting compensation and other claims for government benefits. In hospitals and regional offices of the Veterans Administration representatives of the Red Cross assisted 54,792 ex-service men and their families. This Red Cross service is founded on the doctrine that anxiety, fear and other upsets break down the able-bodied and delay recovery of the sick.

The Red Cross war service is a peace-time as well as war-time function. Recent legislation augmenting the armed forces of the United States has led to a planned increase in the Red Cross program of help to service men.

The Lawrence county chapter has such service. The home service work is done by the executive secretary, who is assisted by volunteers. The chapter assisted 784 veterans and their families file claims for compensation and other war benefits and filed death claims that resulted in approximately $3,350 being brought into the county this past year.

The expense of carrying on the home service work for not only World war veterans, but veterans of the Spanish-American war and the few remaining Civil war veterans is an accepted burden of the chapter. There is no charge of any kind made a veteran. Many offer to pay for the services, but the annual Roll Call gives to the chapter the necessary funds to carry on.

Voters Flocked To Polls During Late Afternoon

Good Vote Is Polled In City And County On Tuesday

It couldn't have been lethargy upon the part of the voters that made the campaign finished with the election so quiet. Apparently it was a quiet determination that needed no speeches or red fire for the vote was unusually heavy for an off-year election.

Early in the day the voting was light but this apparently was because most people waited until after they were through work to cast their ballots.

From four o'clock until eight o'clock, closing time, the polls were jammed with voters and the boards were pressed to keep up with the rush. In the last hour thousands voted and the total vote on Tuesday will show a fine outpouring of citizens bent upon exercising their right of franchise.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

It also makes them disinterested in the daily tasks.

Air conditioning has been a great boon to hay fever victims.

This raises resistance to the effects of air-borne pollens.

Hay fever victims never feel heyhey.

Seventh Ward Board Is Again First To Report

Following its usual custom, the election board of the second precinct of the seventh ward was first in with returns on Tuesday night, and at 8:14 reported their total count for Mayor. At 8:41 they made a second report, and not for some time after did any other precinct report.

The board in the second of the seventh is usually first in, and apparently the board members are people who can go through ballots quickly and make an accurate return.

PLAN TO KILL 3,000 BUFFALOS

(International News Service)

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 8.—Riflemen Tuesday began oiling their weapons for the slaughter of the world's largest buffalo herd, numbering 3,000, whose home in the 100,000-acre Wainwright National park, 150 miles west of Edmonton, is being closed by the federal government.

Also to be killed were 1,800 elk, 500 deer, 125 moose and 35 yak.

The buffalo meat will be sold to private contractors. The hides will be made into coats for the Royal Canadian Mounted police.

The Wainwright herd was started in 1907 when Ottawa purchased the herd of 700 buffalo from Michael Pablo of Montana, one of the last in existence, to prevent extermination of the species. Subsequently the herd grew to 21,000 and was divided among other parks, the largest body remaining in Wainwright.

family because Mr. Lewis' letter has resulted in the open and undenied charge that back of this "conference" were the president's son-in-law and daughter, John and Anna Boettiger, and that word had been passed among those interested that James Roosevelt, now living in Hollywood, would finance the affair through his moving-picture friends. Mr. Lewis did not name "Jimmie," but his reference to an "anonymous individual in California counted on to provide the money" pointed directly to him. As for the Boettigers, they have been screeching for a third term for months and the man who conceived the idea of the "conference," one Howard Costigan, of Seattle, is a close friend and protege of theirs, sent to Washington by them.

ALTOGETHER the Roosevelt family seems pretty deeply involved in this undercover business. Under the circumstances it is a little difficult to believe completely in the unawareness of the President to what his children, hs advisers and his aides are trying to do. That, however, continues to be the theory. In wrecking these plans for promoting a third term, Mr. Lewis did more than merely pain the promoters, their backers and friends. He made certain things plain about himself and 1940 that are of great interest to the politicians. One of these certainly is that he cannot be counted upon to support a third-term candidate. On the contrary, his present attitude, while declared not to be "final," seems one of actual hostility to the idea.

ANOTHER is that, should a third nomination be forced by Mr. Roosevelt, he could not count upon another $600,000 campaign contributon from the C.I.O. (which means Mr. Lewis) such as he received in 1936. Still a third thing Mr. Lewis made clear was that Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, would be an acceptable candidate so far as he is concerned—this despite the fact that Mr. Wheeler disagreed with him on the sit-down strike and was the leader in the fight to kill the Supreme Court packing bill which Mr. Lewis supported. Summing up, the net results of the Lewis blast were: First, to weaken the third-term movement; second, to increase the antagonism between Mr. Lewis and the Corcoran-Cohen group; third, to enhance the chances that Mr. Roosevelt, despite the Gallup poll, ultimately will make a statement eliminating himself; fourth, to considerably strengthen Senator Wheeler as a possible nominee.

Murderer Gets Life Sentence

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Salvatore Sortino, a member of the notorious Philadelphia murder-for-insurance conspiracy, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the self-confessed murder of Ralph H. Caruso of this city.

Scrtino, a huckster, admitted shoving Caruso into the Schuylkill river in 1934. His fate was decided by a three-judge court which heard the evidence in the case after the defendant pleaded guilty.

Eleven other members of the unbelievable conspiracy, in which the ring killed for profit, chiefly by slaying their insured victims with arsenic poison, have been convicted or pleaded guilty, while one other, Mrs. Stella Alfonsi, has been acquitted.

Sunday Movies Are Voted Upon

Returns From 18 Communities In State Voting Show Open Sunday Margin 6 To 1

OTHER TOWNS TO VOTE NEXT YEAR

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 8.—Advocates of an open Sunday in Pennsylvania appeared today to have scored gains in elections in at least 20 communities.

On the basis of partial returns from the 18 communities which balloted on the question of permitting Sunday movies to be exhibited on the Sabbath, open Sunday forces held an early six-to-one advantage.

Scattered returns indicated that Forty Fort, adjacent to Wilkes-Barre, decided by a majority of almost two to one against the Sunday movie question. The vote: 949 against and 543 for.

By a vote of nearly the same proportion, voters of East Hanover township, Dauphin county, rejected Sunday sports.

Five Communities Change

Five Tioga county communities voted to permit Sunday movies, including Wellsboro, the county seat; Elkland, Mansfield, Westfield and Blossburg. The ban against Sunday movies had been in effect in all five communities since last July.

Returns were slow coming in from Lansford, Newburg, Clearfield county, and Palmyra, all of which balloted on Sunday sports.

Mt. Penn and West Reading, Berks county, voted for Sunday movies.

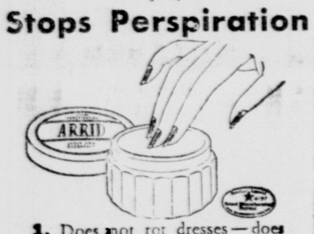

Dr. William B. Forney, president of the Lord's Day Alliance, refused to concede defeat of the closed Sabbath element. "The big fight will come in 1940," he predicted.

Can Vote In 1940

That will be the earliest date when communities that voted five years ago to let down the bars, under the 1935 law providing local option on Sunday movies and sports, may ballot again on the issues.

Returns on the Sunday movie vote were awaited from Bristol township, Bucks county; Shingle House, Potter county; Bigler township and Coalport, Clearfield county; New Philadelphia, Schuylkill county; Roscoe, Washington county; Mifflinburg, Union county; Koppel and Freedom, Beaver, and Black Lick township, Cambria county.

Italian Methodist Reports Encouraging

Proceeds From Spaghetti Supper, $200; Thanksgiving Day Plans Are Made

At the monthly meeting of the official board of the Italian Methodist church, held this week in the pastor's study, 108 Phillips street, with the pastor, Rev. Francesco P. Sulmonetti presiding, it was reported that at the appeal of the pastor for the Ida M. Cribb's Methodist Home for the aged, $10 was received which was an improvement over last year, and $25 was sent last month for missionary offering to the world service commission. There was a note of jubilation when Domenick Sylvester, general chairman of the recent spaghetti supper, reported that the final net proceeds would reach the high peak of $200.

This church will join with the other south side churches in the union thanksgiving service to be held Wednesday evening, November 22, and a special thanksgiving service of worship will be held in the Italian church, Thursday, November 23, at 10:30 a. m., with special anthems by the choir and a sermon by the pastor.

It was mentioned that after the Christmas program and pageant headed by Mrs. Sulmonetti that the months of January and February would be set aside for cottage prayer meetings and revival services.

The pastor presented to the board the written statement of the resignation of Gust Sanfilippo as treasurer of the church, Mr. Sanfilippo having moved from the city, and after comments of sincere regret by the pastor and members of the board it was accepted. The board by a unanimous vote elected as his successor, Domenick Sylvester.

BOLINGER, WALTON AND TRAVERS ARE COUNTY WINNERS

Under the law only two commissioners may be members of one party which guarantees representation to a minority group.

Bolinger Leads

Mr. Bolinger led the commissioner field with a total vote of 16,661. Mr. Walton was second with a vote of 16011, Mr. Travers polled 10,158 votes and John B. Shaw a total of 9,238 votes.

The Republicans breezed through with plenty to spare but the race between the two Democrats was close until five o'clock this morning. All night long Travers and Shaw see-sawed back and forth but about five A .M., several precincts of the Southside in New Castle came through with powerful majorities for Travers and he won by a margin of 920 votes. Travers was chief mechanic of the state highway department when Shaw was the superintendent. Not only was this battle the closest but it was the bitterest of the day.

Other Officers

In the county treasurer race Earl R. Wimer, former Republican city controller was the victor over the incumbent V. I. Mandich. Wimer polling 17,467 and Mandich 10,399. Mr. Mandich was appointed to the office in May 1938 when a vacancy arose. A week ago his deputy John L. Holsinger, who was a candidate for prothonotary, dropped dead as he returned from lunch.

In the prothonotary race the incumbent John A. Edgar had no opposition due to the death of John L. Holsinger, who was the Democratic nominee. Despite the death, 7,903 voters marked Mr. Holsinger as their choice. Mr. Edgar led the entire Republican field with 18,939 votes.

County Controller Frank W. Hill, Republican, retained his office in his battle with Jasper Myers, Democrat. Mr. Hill polled 17,923 votes and Mr. Myers 9,064.

Dr. T. P. Nugent, Republican, who had been a candidate before for the office of coroner was successful on Tuesday. He polled 16,762 votes as against 10,592 for Charles Piper Myers, Democratic incumbent.

Heavy Districts

The heavy districts for the Republican party in yesterday's election were the second, third and fourth wards of New Castle, and the rural areas of the county. The Democratic stronghold proved to be the fifth, seventh and eighth wards, Bessemer, Hillsville and parts of Union and Taylor townships. Ellwood City was fairly even in the county wide offices but elected several Democratis in the boro fight.

Of the 42,407 votes registered in Lawrence County as a whole, between 65 and 66 per cent voted. Inasmuch as the vote was about even over the county it seems fair to assume that if the balance of the voters had turned out the result would probably have been no different.

Republican campaign manager Orville Potter is the recipient of many congratulatory messages today for his handling of the campaign which culminated in Tuesday's election. Every Republican candidate on the ticket went through to victory and the weeks of arduous labor were crowned with complete success.

Germans Report Five Of Allied Planes Downed

Activity On Western Front Is Reported As Showing Some Impetus

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Five allied war planes were shot down in air battles yesterday over German territory, an official German war communique stated today, adding that activity on the western front had increased.

"There was somewhat livelier land scouting activity at some places," the communique said.

"During air battles over German territory yesterday, one British plane was shot down near the mouth of the Wupper river, one French plane was brought down near Voelklingen and three enemy planes were shot down near Saarlautern.

"Nine enemy planes have been brought down during November while two German planes were shot down and three are missing."

(Editor's note: This communique served as a direct German denial of French claims that nine German planes were shot down in a major air battle on Monday.)

MAYNE WINNER BY LARGE VOTE FOR CITY MAYOR

ed up by hundreds for these three wards gave him a handsome vote. Cioffi's strength was in his home ward, the eighth, with considerable aid from the fifth. Mr. Mayne took every other ward in his stride and his stride was a long one.

City Treasurer C. C. McKibben was the next high candidate on the Republican ticket and like Mr. Mayne passed the 10,000 mark. Mr. McKibben's vote was 10,057 as compared to 5338 for his opponent, Harold A. Good. McKibben's home ward, the fourth was especially kind to him, although his vote was universally heavy over the city.

Davies and Fink

For city council, D. O. Davies and J. Leon Fink had leads of about 3500. Mr. Davies polled a vote of 9113 and Fink 8304. For the Democrats the incumbent, J. Myron Rice, polled 5999 votes and Adam Pszenny, his running mate, polled 5075.

Mr. Davies is a former councilman and yesterday defeated the man who took his seat in council four years ago, Mr. Rice. Mr. Fink is just finishing his first term as a councilman. Mr. Pszenny piled up an astounding vote in his home ward, the eighth, a vote which is a credit to him, but was swamped in the northern and eastern sections of the city.

School Directors

The three Republican candidates for school director were easy winners. They are Robert I. Preston, who polled 9789 votes; Griff Thomas, who pollad 9649, and C. L. Shira, who polled 9109. For the Democrats, Harold Harris polled 5143 votes, Nick Calvanese 3937 and Ruffles Johns 3890. Sak Levin, running upon the Communist ticket, polled 347 votes.

The city victory for the Republicans is matched by the county victory, an account of which will be found in other columns of this edition.

Republican leaders are jubilant today over the smashing victory the ticket won on Tuesday. They prophesied an easy victory but it is doubtful if even the most sanguine expected the landslide the ticket achieved.

Tuesday's victory puts the city and county entirely in the Republican column. For the first time in many years not a single office will be held by the Democrats except for the one county commissioner which is necessary by law.

Peace Offer Not Rejected Out Of Hand

Chamberlain Denies German Assertions Made On Peace Effort

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Contrary to German assertions, the British government has not rejected "out of hand" the mediation offer of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain assured the house of commons today.

In reply to a question by Major Richard Clement Attlee, opposition leader, Chamberlain said that the peace offer was "receiving the careful attention of his majesty's government."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: German circles in Berlin charged that the broadcast speech of Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax last night reiterating Britain's war aims had "killed the peace move before it was born.")

Attlee stated the only peace acceptable to his labor party would include removal of Hitler from office, restoration of Poland and Czecho-Slovakia and renunciation of war as German national policy.

The allies, he said, have no desire to inflict a peace humiliating Germany and plan no punitive measures when and if victory is achieved.

Before Chamberlain made his statement, Whitehall officials insisted the peace offer would receive "urgent, careful and sympathetic consideration."

RAY LOSING IN RACE IN BEAVER COUNTY VOTING

(International News Service)

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 8.—Former assistant United States attorney at Pittsburgh John D. Ray, who lost his federal office under the Hatch Bill because of his campaign, today appeared to be losing his fight for district attorney of Beaver county.

As approximately one-half of the county's votes were counted, his Republican opponent and present incumbent, Robert E. McCreary, had piled up approximately twice as many votes. Throughout the entire county it appeared likely that the Republican candidates would take office.

Morrow also had both nominations.

In the Eighth Ward Constable Jack Steinbrink, a Republican, was defeated by Michael "Jersey" Priscella, A Democrat.

BELIEVE PENSION ISSUE SIDETRACKED

northeastern Republicans and western Democrats in the last congress voted to increase federal pensions.

Now the politicos feel they can face the next campaign without declaring for larger pensions. They feel reassured by the 2-1 repudiation of the "Ham and Eggs" $30-Every-Thursday plan by California voters—where the old age pension issue was first raised—and the 3-1 defeat of the $50-Every-Month pension by Ohio voters.

No Surprises

There were no surprises in the three congressional contests, in which national issues were debated. In the traditionally Republican 34th New York (Binghamton) district, the Republican, Edwin A. Hall, won as expected. In the Democratic 4th Pennsylvania (Philadelphia) district, a Democrat, John E. Sheridan, won over the Republican Boise Penrose, Jr., nephew of the one-time Republican boss, by a small majority. In the first South Carolina district, Mrs. Clara McMillan, Democrat, won without contest the seat formerly held by her late husband.

In other contests, both the Democrats and the Republicans had their share of victories. The Democrats won the only two governorships at stake, electing Keen Johnson handily in Kentucky and Paul B. Johnson without a contest in Mississippi. They also were delighted with their majorities in New York state and in strategic sections of New Jersey.

G. O. P. Mayor In Philadelphia

The G. O. P. tasted victory too. They elected another Republican mayor in Philadelphia, and reelected a Republican mayor in Cleveland. In Philadelphia Robert E. Lamberton won by 30,000 as compared to a 50,000 victory for his G. O. P. predecessor in 1935. This outcome was not regarded as significant by Democrats, because Philadelphia went for President Roosevelt in 1936 by 200,000. The Cleveland outcome also failed to shock Democrats, since Mayor Harold H. Burton won in a non-partisan contest over another Republican.

In Detroit a Republican mayor, Richard Reading, was defeated for reelection by Edward J. Jeffries, but this, too, was under non-partisan auspices. Republicans did not regard it as a setback, as the issues were purely local.

Aside from the congressional contests in which the status quo was maintained, most of the contests clear across the country were fought out on local issues. In Philadelphia Lamberton raised national issues, but his opponent, Democratic City Controller Robert C. White, battled only on local issues.

Consequently it appeared the American electorate voted on home issues and without giving any trend of its thoughts about 1940.

Germany Increases Aerial Activity By Flights Over French Territory

AIRCRAFT FIRE HEARD IN PARIS

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Geamany intensified her military activity along the entire front today and at the same time greatly increased her aerial activity, sending out a number of deep reconnaissance patrols which dropped propaganda leaflets over French territory.

The Germans unleashed three heavy raids against the French front line defenses, the first in the region immediately east of the Moselle, the second about 15 miles east of the Moselle and the third on the east side of the Orenthal Salient.

The second and third attacks were preceded by artillery barrages of 30 minutes duration.

Important Movements

For for the first time in several days, important movements were reported behind the German lines, apparently near the Netherlands frontier where French observers expect a German attack may be only a matter of days.

It was learned that the nine American-made Curtiss planes which the French claim shot down nine German Messerschmidt fighters on Monday were attached to the Lafayette escadrille.

The French yesterday sent six reconnaissance flights deep over German territory.

Last night and early this morning anti-aircraft fire was heard on the outskirts of Paris.

It was reported that tracts reproducing the text of Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov's recent speech were dropped near Versailles. The tracts were printed in both German and French.

Japanese Deny Anti-American Campaign Is On

Put Blame For Activities In China On Communist Government

BRITAIN ALSO PARTLY BLAMED

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING.—"The Japanese army in occupied China will not stand for any anti-American campaign similar to the anti-British movement," declared Col. Nagai, spokesman of the North China command of the Imperial Japanese army.

"Reports of Chinese movements against American missionaries in Kaifeng, Shihchiachwang and other points in Shansi are the malicious work of a third power eager to harm the friendly relations between America and Japan," continued the colonel.

"Furthermore, our intelligence service captured instructions from the Chinese Communist authorities ordering anti-Japanese elements to join in with the anti-British violence and particularly to redirect them against Americans. The aim is to blacken Japan's name and involve the United States," said Col. Nagai.

Accuses Britain

The third power referred to by the spokesman can be none other than Great Britain, which, finding itself the butt of Japanese and provoked Chinese attacks, desires to draw the United States into the same disastrous position and thereby strengthen her own protests to Tokyo according to official Japanese apologists.

"In Kaifeng, from whence we have the statements of American missionaries that they are safe and unmolested in the midst of the anti-British campaign, reports of a movement against them came about through misunderstanding. Canadian missionaries there always spoke of taking their home leave in America. Hence when a Chinese demonstration moved against the Canadian mission, the natives imagined they were attacking Americans," Col. Nagai related.

The Japanese officer did not seem bothered by his implication that the Chinese acting on impulse of Japanese agents, were so blind as to the motives of their campaign they did not trouble to distinguish between Britons and Americans.

"Spontaneous" and Inspired

Another Japanese Army spokesman after asserting that the current anti-British campaign was "spontaneous" blandly went on to reveal that in the first stages the movement could not exist without Japanese inspiration and assistance.

It was pointed out that the word "spontaneous" meant coming from within at the beginning. However, the spokesman stuck to his guns, declaring that the movement could not exist among the Chinese alone.

"It must run together with Japan's own attack on the British," he confessed.

Britain alone is responsible for the campaign," said Col. Nagai. "So long as she continues to help, the Chiang Kai-shek regime against the New Order in East Asia, the movement will grow."

All Help Chiang

Correspondents argued that the United States was assisting Chiang Kai-shek also.

"Every country is helping him," said the colonel. "However, America is also helping Japan."

Thus the impression is gathered by observers in Asia that every Japanese spokesman deliberately is under orders to ignore American friendship and assistance to Nationalist China; and to do everything in his power to impress upon Americans that Japan is striving for their friendship

This is proven so far as words go. However, when it comes to deeds and realities, the facts are otherwise. Consequently the opinion grows among Americans in China that they are being spared for the moment and only for as long as it suits the purposes of the Imperial Japanese Army.

On all sides one hears Americans saying:

"It is only a matter of time. It would be foolish to believe that what is happening to the British in China at Japanese hands will not happen to us eventually."

THREE CHILDREN AND GODMOTHER BURNED TO DEATH

(International News Service)

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Nov. 8.—Three children and their godmother were burned to death early Tuesday when an exploding oil stove created an inferno of their small two-story house.

The dead were Margaret Harris, 4; Raymond, 6, and Dorothy, 17, and their godmother, Ann Finkberger, 20. Edward Harris, the father, was powerless to rescue them because of his wooden leg. A son, Robert, 16, leaped from a second floor window, badly burned.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MOTHER SHOULD TAKE IMMEDIATE STEPS IF SHE SUSPECTS BABY SWALLOWED SOME OBJECT.

If a mother can find no trace of a safety pin that she knows was attached to the baby's clothes, she should lose not a moment in getting the child to the nearest place where she can have an X-ray of the child's stomach. As we saw yesterday, babies naturally put into their mouths almost anything and everything they get their hands on. So if a pin is missing, there is some chance that the child may have swallowed it.

Fortunately, many doctors' offices are today equipped with fluoroscopes—machines that differ from X-ray in that the parts of the body and the bones can be seen moving. Almost every hospital has such a machine today, and under one of these it is only a matter of a minute or two to place the child on the screen and look at the digestive tract. If the pin is anywhere, from the throat to the rectum, it can be seen and steps taken for its removal. If it isn't visible, the mother can take her child and go home with complete confidence that the pin went somewhere else—the child didn't swallow it. However, I know from experience, if the mother doesn't satisfy herself that the pin wasn't swallowed, she will stew and fret about it for days when likely as not it fell behind the dresser.

We have made great improvements recently in the instruments used to extract foreign bodies from the stomach. The one most used is a long, thin affair which is pushed down the throat to where the pin can be seen under the fluoroscope. Sometimes if the pin is open, it can be closed, and so easily removed. If it cannot be closed and the pointed end is down, it can be pulled out that way without injury to any of the parts. However, if the point is up, then the pin can be cut into two parts and removed that way. The great danger in swallowing a pin is that the accident goes unnoticed. Before anything is known about it, the sharp point has perforated the gut. When this happens there is danger of peritonitis and the child may well lose its life.

Plain pins are swallowed less often than safety pins because they aren't used in dressing the child and aren't—or shouldn't be—where the child could reach them. Such pins are dangerous in that they are less likely to be noticed and may lie in the stomach for sometime or cause real damage before their presence is suspected. When they are detected, however, they are easily removed.

A boy of seven or eight was brought to me once because he was constipated. I examined him carefully to see what could be wrong and I thought I located something hard in the lower end of the bowel. I investigated and, sure enough, there was a mass of small bones, like those of a chicken but smaller. Well, I removed this mass of bones which had blocked up the bowel and, of course, the constipation disappeared at once.

After I had given the boy relief I inquired of the parents what the bones were. I learned from them that they had had several feeds of partridge. The young boy was passionately fond of the meat and had insisted on consuming the bones as well. Some of the bones were extremely sharp and as I removed them I couldn't help but wonder how the child had escaped a perforation of the digestive tract at some point.

The Quints have never given us a fright by swallowing anything dangerous because we always keep all pins and pointed objects out of their reach.

Wallace C. McCalmont of Park avenue, who was formerly employed in the court house, but who now has a position at Harrisburg, was calling on court house officials yesterday, having come home to vote. He is in the department of supplies at Harrisburg, and is preparing to move to that city.

Judge W. Walter Braham made an order at court today, continuing Ray H. Aylesworth, as receiver of the Pittsburgh Company of Ellwood City for another six months, or until May 1. As the assets of the company were mostly in real estate and mortgages, work of settling up the affairs of the company has been tedious, and it has been necessary to continue the receivership. Several times. Indications are that another six months may see the end of the receivership.

Arguments were heard by Judge Thomas W. Dickey in the case of the City of New Castle against the County of Lawrence, in connection with a dispute over taxes on the municipal golf course and Cascade Park. Testimony for both sides was submitted by agreement, and following the arguments Judge Dickey will hand down an opinion that may settle the controversy.

With the admission of Merle H. Hildebrand to the bar, all three former judges, now have sons practicing law. In the office of Former Judge J. Norman Martin is his son, Norman A. Martin; in the office of Former Judge James A. Chambers, is his son, James E. Chambers, and now in the office of R. L. Hildebrand, his son Merle H. Hildebrand. Like father, like son, as the old saying goes.

Quite a number of local attorneys sent congratulations to W. D. Brandon, oldest member of the Butler county bar, on the occasion of his 92nd birthday anniversary this week. Attorney Brandon has appeared here in court cases a number of times during his long practice. He is still in good health, goes to his office regularly, and is said to be the oldest practicing attorney in Pennsylvania.

In the case of the First M. E. church and Lizzie Kirmayer against Attorneys Harvey E. Martin and Homer C. Drake, and the First National Bank of Lawrence county, Judge W. Walter Braham has handed down an opinion in which questions of law raised by the defense are overruled and defendants are directed to make answer to the statement of claim.

The case is one in which the late Laura A. Reynolds designated Martin and Drake, as her trustees for a fund of $1,500 which was to be deposited in the First National Bank. Money was to be drawn out only on orders to the trustees from Mrs. Reynolds. In the declaration of trust it was provided that in case of the death of Mrs. Reynolds, one-third of the money on deposit was to go to the First Methodist church and the two-thirds to her sister-in-law, Lizzie Kirmayer. There were no withdrawals from the fund during Mrs. Reynolds lifetime.

Previous to her death which occurred about Jan. 30, 1939, Mrs. Reynolds entered the Masonic home at Elizabethtown, Pa., and in doing so assigned her property, including the money in the trusteeship, to the home, also making a will to that effect. Following her death some legal points were raised as to the money in the trust fund. The bank has paid the money into court where the ownership of the funds will finally be adjudicated.

Arguments were heard before Judge W. Walter Braham in the cases of Mooney against Haug; Hanrahan against Driver; Smith against Grim, and McCord against Van Tassel. Several other cases on the argument list are being heard today.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Dr. Heinrich Neumann, 66, the world-famous ear specialist who numbered former Kings Edward VIII of England and Alfonso XIII of Spain among his patients, was dead Tuesday, an exile from his former home in Vienna.

His death which occurred after an extended illness revived a report which his associates since denied that he had once refused to treat Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany for fear that failure might further endanger his fellow-Jews.

His wife, Melitta, and a son, John, were at his bedside. But he did not live to be reunited with two daughters, Liza and Suzanne, refugees now enroute to United States from Genoa.

British Claim Control Of Seas

CONSTANT WATCH IS MAINTAINED

(International News Service)

LONDON.—The British navy today is more than justifying its title, "The Silent Service" for quietly and with deadly efficiency it is sweeping German commerce from the seas and thus bringing great economic pressure to bear on the Reich through the contraband control.

Working in closest collaboration with the Secret Service and Naval Intelligence, special patrols of destroyers and torpedo boats maintain a day and night watch on all shipping, neutral and otherwise, approaching Europe.

The control zone follows on offshore line extending from the top of Norway down to the coast of French Morocco.

Any ship crossing this line comes under the surveillance of the control. All cargoes of suspected contraband for Germany are intercepted and, while account is taken of the bona fide trading needs of neutral countries, all consignments are carefully watched for evidence of ultimate enemy destination.

Dutch Steamer Held

One large Dutch steamer has been held by the British authorities for several days since its arrival from New York due to vigilance of control officers, who discovered that a seemingly innocent cargo of several thousand tons of cotton, wheat and machinery, consigned to a Dutch firm was actually intended for Germany.

Certain documents were discovered on board which gave detailed instructions to the intermediary firm in Holland for further shipment of goods by rail to Berlin.

So far, the daily" bag" has netted everything from minerals to hides and skins, down to 20 bags of coffee enroute from Aden to Hamburg, addressed in French to: S. E. Herr Hitler, President Republique Grand Allemagne, Hamburg.

British Admiralty officials declare that Germany has now been cut off from many millions of dollars worth of goods which she imported before the outbreak of hostilities.

Vital Raw Materials Hit

Most important are the raw materials essential for fighting a war which no longer are available to the Reich from overseas. These include oil, cotton and phosphates from the United States; wheat and nickel from Canada; oil from Mexico; rubber, cotton, wheat and wool from South America; copper, cotton, nickel and manganese from the Far East; rubber, bauxite and tin from the East Indies.

The headquarters of the Contraband Base in the British Isles is located in a small hotel at Weymouth, a strategic port controlling all shipping entering the English Channel.

When a patrol ship sights an incoming vessel, she immediately flashes a message to the signal station at Portland, which relays the message to the captain's room at headquarters. The Royal Air Force is also informed. The message gives her name and nationality.

At once the No. One boarding party standing by in a fast motor boat is ordered to put to sea. Two officers, one to act as witness, and six men from the crew.

Seal Wireless Cabin

When the boarding officer goes up the pilot ladder and climbs onto the deck, the Captain's authority ceases and the British Navy takes charge. The wireless cabin is sealed so that no signals can be made while the ship is in the control zone.

A thorough search is then conducted to see that her cargo corresponds with the ship's papers. If nothing suspicious is found the boarding party returns to headquarters where a summary of the ship's manifest, giving every detail of the cargo and passengers carried, the ports of origin and destination, is flashed by teleprinter to the Ministry of Economic Warfare.

Some hours later the Ministry sends back its decision. An "all-clear" means that the ships papers are returned to the Captain together with the vital certificate of naval clearance, which will enable him to pass on his way without further hindrance.

Action On Contraband

Should the Ministry have its doubts, another search party goes out to make a complete examination. If contraband is discovered, the ship must go under "naval control" to whatever port she is ordered, to hand over the contraband goods to the British Customs. An armed guard is put aboard but passengers, even enemy citizens unless they are returning to the armed forces of their country, are allowed to proceed to their destination.

Once the contraband is in the hands of the Customs, it is lost forever to the consignee. A prize court sitting in London decides on the fate of the goods which are then auctioned off. Usually, the money realized at these sales goes to the British Treasury.

It was Winston Churchill's proud boast that in the first two weeks of the war: "We have actually seized and converted to our use 67,000 tons more German merchandise than has been sunk in ships of our own."

Since then these figures have improved, week by week, according to the Admiralty, until today the odds are heavily in favor of the Allies as far as mastery of economic warfare is concerned.

Tax Assessment Law Modified By 1939 Legislature

Pennsylvania Economy League Reports That Results Are More Satisfactory

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 8.—Bolstering of existing systems for equalizing assessments and wider latitudes granted tax revision boards and city councils in adjusting assessments on an equitable basis were direct results of new legislation enacted by the 1939 legislature, the Pennsylvania economy league reported today.

The league declared that the legislation has facilitated "progress toward equalization of real estate tax assessments in Pennsylvania."

The legislature amended both the general county and third class city assessment laws and in both cases, the league said, modification of a previous rigid requirement that assessments be based upon "fair public sale" value proved satisfactory.

The requirement was modified to provide that such values "shall be considered, but shall not be controlling." Under an added clause, "such selling price, estimated or actual, shall be subject to revision to increase or decrease to accomplish equalization with similar property within the taxing district."

County Commissioner James A. Kell, Westmoreland county, commenting on the amendments, declared that the revised law would permit assessors to "introduce clinching evidence" as to the fairness of assessments, particularly in Westmoreland, Allegheny, and Lackawanna counties.

They (the amendments) will enable boards of revision to proceed with equalization, without fear of adverse court decisions in proceedings where the old 'fair sale value' clause effectively barred testimony supporting the equitability of the assessment by comparison with the valuation of similar properties."

Trucking Nears Saturation Point

Joint Conference Between Rail And Truck Carriers Is Proposed

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, No. 8.—A warning that Pennsylvania may soon reach a "truck saturation" point for transportation over the state's highways was incorporated today in a proposal for a joint conference of truck and rail representatives to discuss the problem.

Public utility Commissioner Richard J. Beamish made the suggestion for the conference, asserting that the "over-the-road" truckers themselves would benefit if an agreement could be reached on allocation upon a reasonable basis the transportation necessary to meet the needs of shippers.

Pointing out that Michigan and Illinois have declared through their public utility commissions that no more trucking certificates would be granted on certain routes, Beamish cautioned that Pennsylvania is rapidly approaching a "saturation point" in the trucking industry.

Already, Beamish insisted, certain areas in Pennsylvania has reached "or speedily will reach" a saturation point. Specifically, he named the Philadelphia-Harrisburg area, the area in Northeastern Pennsylvania, the area around Pittsburgh, and part of the Lycoming area.

Ellwood High Will Play Beaver Falls Saturday Afternoon

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 8—The Ellwood high gridders cannot rest on their laurels of having decisively defeated five of the strong valley teams, Rochester, Monaca, Midland, Aliquippa and New Brighton, but must work hard all week to be in readiness for the season's finale on Saturday afternoon when they will entertain Beaver Falls high in an Armistice Day attraction.

Notwithstanding the fact that Beaver Falls has had a most unsuccessful season losing to New Castle, Midland, Ambridge, Rochester, tying with Aliquippa and winning over Burgettstown and Butler, the Ellwood skipper, "Dutch" Croft believes his charges are slated for their hardest battle of the year against the Waltonians.

Croft believes that Beaver Falls low scores are due to inconsistency of play rather than inability. They have a fast charging line and their feat of holding Aliquippa to a 6-6 tie last Friday night is not to be ignored because Aliquippa was one of the strongest teams to be faced by the Blue and White, who emerged with a 14 to 6 victory.

More rivalry exists between Ellwood and Beaver Falls than between any other school that Ellwood plays and the Tigers are aware that a victory over the amazing Ellwood team would more than offset their other humiliating defeats. Naturally the Croft-Gills machine want to end their season in a flash of glory and if they display the fight and drive they are capable of, they should unquestionably win.

The Ellwood mentor was pleased with the comeback the Blue and White made against New Brighton last Thursday night in the second half to win by a 21-0 score and thinks it should convince the local skeptics that Ellwood's victories have been earned and not the result of "breaks" and there isn't any question that the victories have been deserved when the lop-sided scores are considered.

Many Players in Final Game

It will not only be the final game of the year but it will also mark the final appearance of the majority of the Ellwood "black-out" line and many of the most valued reserves.

First string linemen to walk the graduation plank will be Powell, Tanner, ends; Fera, Miller, and Morrison, tackles; Biggins and Lanzi, guards, and Maggi, Shirey and Yanelli, reserve linemen. The only lineman left for next year will be Pishioneri, center.

Murphy is the only regular back to go the way of all good players and from the reserve backs will go Cipro, Welton and Greco.

Cartwright, Reino, Biego and Mazzant, bulwark of this year's backfield, will all return next year and that is saying enough to keep a smile on any coach's face. However, Biego and Mazzant want to quit school and Croft is using all his persuasive power to keep that from happening.

Lester Biggins, veteran guard, has been elected honorary captain of this year's team, an honor that is rightfully deserved because he has been a standout in the Ellwood line for two years.

No Post-Season Game

A post-season game that has been strongly advocated here for the band uniform fund is "definitely out", Croft said owing to unpredicatable weather conditions and in addition the finding of a game that would attract a crowd without calling for a two-game series would be almost impossible.

If Ellwood wins Saturday, they will be tied with Ambridge, AA contenders, for the Beaver Valley crown. Both schools will have defeated the same six valley teams, by scores that would average about even. If they win, Croft will make an appeal for the co-championship but he believes it will be given to the lower valley school.

Next year's schedule has been about completed. The Bessemer game, at the present time, seems to be off the list because of the inability to arrange a suitable date satisfactory to both schools. Bessemer can't arrange the game early in the year because of other contracts and their open date at the end of the season would prolong the Ellwood season beyond their desired closing time.

According to present arrangements Ellwood will open with Union township in mid-September. They have an open date for September 21, and it is expected to be filled so that a continuous nine game schedule may be played. There will be no other changes in the Ellwood schedule.

Change Game To Friday Night By Action Of Board

New Castle And Grove City Will Play Here Friday Night Instead Of Saturday

CHANGE AGREEABLE TO GROVE CITYIANS

By action of the Athletic Board at New Castle Senior High School, the New Castle-Grove City High football game will be played on Friday night instead of Saturday afternoon as originally scheduled. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Coach Joe Hartman and his Grove City High team have agreed to play here on Friday night instead of Saturday. Last Saturday the Grovers pasted the Sharpsville High boys for a loop 14 to 12 and expect to do the same thing here Friday night to the "Red Hurricane." It is bound to be a game worth seeing.

Cripples On Mend

The New Castle cripples are on the mend but not fast. Cenname is still ailing, Ciazza's ankle it is hoped will be in shape to allow him to start Friday night. McKee is still wearing the cast on his hand, but may see some action. Whether or not any changes will be made in the lineup is not definitely known. It may be that big John Kulnis who has played such a swell game at tackle may get a chance to strut his backfield ability. This is only conjecture though with the writer.

Tommy Gilboy will no doubt be kept at the quarter-back spot. Jerry is looking better every game at guard. Joe Gender is still battling for a starting backfield spot. Otis Burris if he brushes up on defense would be a world-beater in the right-half spot, Larry Roberts will be at the left-half job. Lindy Lauro will be at fullback. In the event that Kulnis is used in the backfield, he may get the fullback spot with the fleet-footed Lauro being made into a halfback.

Expect Big Crowd

In the event of good weather Friday night there will no doubt be a big crowd on hand. Grove City will send several hundred here for the game as they believe that the Grovers have an excellent chance this year of beating the New Castle boys. This also being the resumption of an ancient series will bring the customers out.

It's been 19 years since a Grove City High team trimmed New Castle. With a fine record this year, the Grove City boys will come here very much determined to hand the "Red Hurricane" a trimming.

Back in 1919 the Grovers won from New Castle 6 to 3, and in 1920 the year that Coach Joe Hartman and Bill Klee played their final games for New Castle the Grovers took it 7 to 0, but after that the locals had the Jinx on the Mercer County boys. Not since Bridenbaugh has been here has Grove City won from New Castle. The relationship was broken in 1930 and the fans will welcome back a very fine Grove City High team.

Southern Cal May Stop Irish In Final Game

Believe That Notre Dame's Back-Breaking Schedule Will Prove Their Undoing

YALE COACH IS PRETTY BURNED UP

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Along the sports front today:

There is a growing suspicion in the east that Southern California will take Notre Dame when they meet at South Bend on November 25, if Iowa or Northwestern doesn't knock the Irish off in the meantime. . . . Unbeaten to date against an unbroken string of major opponents, the Irish are getting a little weary of it all, and probably will be worn to a frazzle for their final game. . . . Or that's what everybody seems to think. . . . Southern California, tied in its first game by Oregon and unbeaten, untied since, is the best team on the coast, unless it's U. C. L. A. . . . They will settle this point in a clash on Dec. 9

Not "Iron Men"

Explaining how it happened that nine of his men went the whole distance against Cornell and two others nearly all the way, Coach Lou Little of Columbia said today that he is not trying for the intercollegiate iron man championship of 1939. . . . "When the regulars are fresh and free of injuries and substitutions can't be made without weakening the team, then there is no reason for changes," he said. . . . The fact that Cornell nearly lost and finally just did beat battered Columbia by a touchdown would indicate that Little's system was O. K. . . . Cornell should have won by four touchdowns. . . . Columbia over Navy looks like a good bet for this week.

Beaten by the Detroit Lions last Sunday and now in a deadlock with the Washington Redskins for the eastern division lead, the New York professional Giants will be overhauled for the game next Sunday with the Chicago Cardinals, led by Marshall Goldberg, ex-Pitt. . . . Coach Steve Owen plans to groom Al Owen, speedy former Mercer back, for a starting berth. . . . The Giants still have a chance to become the first team ever to retain the title. . . . But it won't be easy.

Pond Disgusted

Coach Ducky Pond, who in disgust after the Dartmouth rout, said his Yale team played the worst football he ever saw on Yale field, can holler all he likes. . . . But it won't take the place of a good, well-coached team. . . . Yale's performance was unquestionably the dizziest demonstration of whacky football put on this season anywhere.

Still the mighty Blue hasn't been able so far to approach the mighty Chicagos. . . . Still enjoying the 10-cent football instituted by the president of that proud old university, Chicago added to its accomplishments last Saturday by losing to Virginia 47 to 0. . . . That makes 201 points for the opposition in five games against 12 for Chicago, which has won one, beating proud old Wabash, 12 to 2. . . . Yale has got a long ways to go yet.

Two Titan Dependables

MAMULA

DE PAULIS

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 8.—These two Westminster Titan tackles, Dan Mamula, Pittsburgh, and Harry DePaulis, Aliquippa, both juniors, are largely responsible for the fact that the Titans' in their first three games this season picked up over 1,000 yards in scrimmage. Most of the plays called in these games were off-tackle dashes.

Upon these two men, Coach Washabaugh will depend to open up gaps in the line in Saturday's game against an old district-rival, Grove City.

Cubs Will Keep Gabby Hartnett As 1940 Manager

DENY BEING AFTER 'SLUGGER' MEDWICK

By BILL COLLINS
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Rugged, ruddy, Charles Leo ("Gabby") Hartnett has agreed that two heads are better than one, and therefore he will continue as manager of the Chicago Cubs in 1940.

His boss, P. K. Wrigley, made the announcement late yesterday and expanded on the announcement today with the declaration:

"Hartnett's attitude that he was working separately instead of with the organization was my big grievance. Naturally, I thought the Cubs should have done better in the race, (they finished fourth) but maybe I wouldn't have had such thoughts if Gabby had come to me from time to time and expressed his views. After all, I was stuck with the team so was entitled to know what was going on. I could have sent for Gabby but then there'd have been the usual 'interference' stories."

Admits His Error

Gabby, the owner-president of the Chicago National league baseball club intimated, had admitted the error of his ways, had agreed to quit his lone wolf role, and be a nice amiable chap and talk over the whys and wherefores now and then with the man who pays his salary. Hartnett hasn't been given his contract yet, but will be soon, Wrigley said.

Wrigley took the occasion to deny once more that the Cubs are in the market for Joe Medwick, St. Louis Cards outfielder. "We are not trying and we are not going to try to buy Medwick," he declared.

Grove City Makes Ready For Titans

Crimson Players Prepare For Gridiron Battle With Westminster

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 8.—Fired by a three-touchdown victory over California Teachers, in which 25 Grovers took part and the scoring was all accomplished with reserve Crimson players in action, the entire squad reported early today to put in strenuous drills for the Westminnter game coming up.

Coach Loveless found his squad in the best physical condition of the year, with all injured players rounding into peak form. The return of Ted Penar gives the squad a "real back" who was counted on for much service, but who suffered an ankle injury in the first game and was out of action in the past four contests. There will be no heavy scrimmage work held this week, and every Grover gridder will be ready to go against the Westminster Titans Saturday.

The rapid development of "Buck" Schlosser, freshman from Mt. Vernon, O., as a passer has led the Grover coaches to stress this form of attack. It is believed that Schlosser will become one of the most expert flingers to wear the Crimson in recent years, and he is getting a lot of work on his specialty. Another youngster coming up fast is Woody Eshenaur of Reading, a 150-pound guard whose improvement has been so rapid that he is just a step away from a starting berth.

Efforts of Coaches Loveless and Smith will be directed at the guards and ends this week. The downfield blocking last week left much to be desired, and was the only real flaw in the best performance of the Grovers this year.

Bill DeCorrevont Deceptive Runner

Former Chicago High School Star Scores Touchdown For Wildcats In Minnesota Game

SHOWS BURST OF SPEED AT END

By CHESTER YOULL
International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Out on the Northwestern campus today they were telling the story of how the Wildcats finally shook loose that "Modern Frank Merriwell"—Bill De Correvont, a quiet young footballer who has received more than his share of publicity.

Until Saturday when De Correvont blasted his way out of a trick formation and raced 61 yards for a winning touchdown against Minnesota, the young man was considered something of a bust.

Two years ago, a dozen colleges were bidding for his services after he left Austin high school in Chicago with an incredible record. During his prep career, De Correvont was almost unstoppable on running plays and he was a good passer and kicker. But the blond halfback was only passable as a freshman at Evanston and this year he certainly did nothing to distinguish himself in Northwestern's early games.

Beautiful Block

Saturday, however, De Correvont ran from the key spot on the Wildcats' most razzle-dazzle formation. He was at the left wingback, 217-pound Don Clawson was at the tailback and Dick Richards and Floyd Chambers were to the right. Clawson took the ball from center and went into a fine deceptive spin, apparently handing the ball to Chambers but really giving it to De Correvont who, with tremendous speed, went around Minnesota's left end. Running in advance, Rchards made a beautiful block to take Earl Ohlgren, Gopher left end, out of the play.

In a twinkling, De Correvont had gone over the line of scrimmage and was almost in the clear with only George Franck, one of the fastest men in the conference, left to beat him off.

Nip And Tuck

Franck went after De Correvont and it was nip and tuck to see which was the faster, but gradually De Correvont drew away and Franck was hopelessly outrun when the last chalk mark had been reached.

Coach Lynn Waldorf was asked today about De Correvont's burst of speed and he threw some light on the situation when he said:

"Bill has a deceptive pace and it is not always clear just how fast he is running. But he has been clocked in 9 8-10 seconds in a hundred yard dash. And that is real speed. He is going to give our conference foes during the next two years a lot of trouble."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Gabby Hartnett will manage the Cubs again in 1940 and Joe Medwick of the Cards will not be in a Cub uniform, Owner Phil Wrigley stated in Chicago today . . . Dr. "Jock" Sutherland declined today to amplify reports he is bound for Navy, Duke, Temple and a half dozen other coaching jobs next season . . . There'll be an all-family affair when Frankford, Pa., meets Northeast, Pa., on the grid today. Frankford is coached by Elwood Geiges and Northeast by Harold Geiges, a brother. A second brother, Carl, will referee . . . "I still believe I can beat Billy Murray. I couldn't get going Monday night," said Frankie Moran, local featherweight today . . . Jimmy Johnston, New York fight manager, hopes to see his protege, Bob Pastor, fight Billy Conn this winter . . . Saluda, owned by Mrs. Robert Winthrop, poked his black nose in front at the wire to win the Temple Gawthmey Memorial steeplechase handicap at Belmont Park . . . Holystone, by Man O' War, owned by Crispin Oglebay, Gates Mills, O., and ridden by Luke Collister, won the Professional Horsemen's Association championship challenge cup at the National Horse Show, New York, Tuesday . . . George Mazza, state motor policeman, who with Phil Greer, judged The Arena fights Monday, was a fighter in Erie rings some years ago . . . Open dates on Mondays and twin bills on Sundays will be proposed by Sam Breadon, president St. Louis Cards, when major league club owners pow-wow in Cincinnati next month . . . Wolcott Langford, ex-middleweight, will undergo an operation today in Chicago, in an effort to regain his eyesight . . . Steve Belloise, New York, defeated Harry Ginsberg, New York, in eight rounds, in White Plains, N. Y., last night. They are welterweights. Harry Balsamo, New York, decisioned Walter Franklin, New York, in eight chapters, in New York. They are middleweights. . . . Next local fight will be Monday, November 20.

YALE SIGNS UP DUCKY POND AND HIS ASSISTANTS

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—The re-signing of Grid Coach Ducky Pond and his entire staff at Yale dissipated rumors today that the job might go to Dr. John B. Sutherland, late of Pitt.

Pond's re-signing at this time was far ahead of schedule and was believed done to show that the athletic office was behind the Yale mentor in his recent criticism of his team.

Stella Is Best Army Linesman

Lawton Carver Of INS Thinks That Stella Will Rate As All-American

STELLA IS ALSO CAPTAIN OF TEAM

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—What probably is the first nomination for an All-America berth this football season is made today herewith:

Harry Stella, captain and tackle of the Army eleven.

In a few weeks the All-Americas will come rolling off the printing presses all over the land. A majority of the players will be picked from among the teams in the upper brackets—teams which will have battled their way through to perfect or near-perfect seasons. Notre Dame, Tennessee, Cornell, Texas A. and M., and Duquesne, all currently unbeaten, and such elevens as Dartmouth, Southern California, U. C. L. A., Oklahoma, Tulane and North Carolina, up to now once tied and coming fast, will dominate the star aggregations.

Without Major Victory

Up to now Army has not won a major game, was tied by Columbia and beaten by Yale and Notre Dame. Moreover, Army doesn't figure to windup in any so-called blaze of glory, with remaining engagements calling for Harvard, Penn State and Navy.

But regardless of how or where Army finishes as a team, you can bet all the gold braid at West Point that Harry Stella, of Kankakee, Ill., class of '40, will be the absolute standout or close to it among all the linemen in all thoes games. He has filled that role to date, with such aggressiveness and genuine skill that he frequently is more prominent out there than the ball-carrier. And, mind you, he's playing with a losing team.

He's a tremendous football player—a husky gent standing 5 feet 11 inches and weighing 220 pounds and quite fierce about it all as he whales into the defense or the offense with equal vigor, stopping or leading charges and, all in all, preventing Army from looking any worse than it does. Notre Dame has a good line, but Stella was the best man on the feld when the Irish beat the Army last Saturday. That gives you a rough idea.

Sports World Ramblings

Unsung Heroes—Every football team in the country has its unsung heroes—the cheerleaders. New Castle high's "rah rah leaders" have scored a series of hits this season. Lots of favorable comment has reached this department regarding the local lads and lassies who step in front of the stands and engineer cheers which inspire their favorites on the field.

Misses Bernice Bartlett and Margaret Fisher, faculty members, deserve considerable credit for the snappy cheerleaders, their neat costumes and their general excellence. Miss Bartlett chose the costumes and has general supervision, while Miss Fisher has drilled them so that they co-ordinate their cheering and movements with various band numbers. The average spectator has no idea of the time, work and patience necessary to prepare displays staged at each home game.

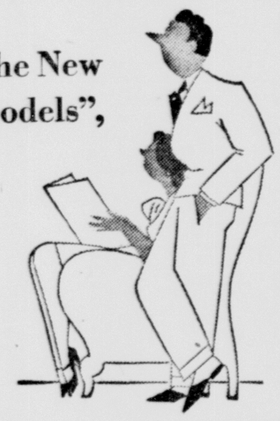

The local cheerleaders include four winsome lassies—Audrey Bridenbaugh (daughter of the coach), Betty Reed, Mary Lou Travers and Gloria Augustine. The girl alternate cheerleader is Betty Ward. Successful points after touchdowns decided 16 clashes. Successful field goals brought victory to 12 schools.

OHIO MAN KILLS HIS WIFE THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

(International News Service)

NEWARK, O., Nov. 8.—Ohio police Tuesday remained puzzled as to the motive for the apparent suicide-murder of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collins in their Thornport home, south of here.

As reconstructed by police, Collins, 77, apparently shot his 68-year-old wife in the head as she lay asleep on the second floor of their home. Then, authorities said, Collins went into the next room, removed his shoes and stockings and pushed the trigger of his gun with his toes, fatally wounding himself.

Their bodies were found several hours later by neighbors.

FINANCIAL

Money To Loan

Can you set aside $1.59 to $1.65 per week for a $100 LOAN

That's actually all you need to pay off in full a $100 cash loan including all charges on a 18 month plan at Personal Finance Co. And we take no wage assignment.

● $1.59 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $100 borrowed on Personal's new "Special" loan plan of only 2½% per month on the first $100 and 2% per month on balances over $100. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly and a good credit record.

● For persons without established credit and employment ratings, or who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan at 3% monthly on unpaid balances of 100 and less, and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100. Under this plan, setting aside just $1.65 a week will repay everything on a $100 loan in 18 months. Loans from $20 to $300.

Stock Market Is Irregular

Opening Is Somewhat Lower But Recovery Starts Early In Trading

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The stock market shifted downward at the opening today but recovered somewhat from initial declines running to more than a point.

Heaviest losses were incurred by steels, aviations, coppers and rail equipments in the initial flurry of selling. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, United Aircraft, Boeing, Douglas, American Smelting, Anaconda and American Car & Foundry all were down more than a point at their lows. Most of these, however, were reduced to fractions in the second hour.

Others to give up a point or more before meeting support included Union Carbide, American Can, Westinghouse Electric and Flintkote. Lesser declines were shown by DuPont, North America, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich and Sears Roebuck.

Bucking the trend were U. S. Gypsum, up a point; Chrysler and General Motors, Pennsylvania on the doubling of dividends, and some of the California issues.

Noted Visitor At Wolves Club

Resident Of Rome Present At Meeting At The Castleton Tuesday Night

Questioned about the current conflict in Europe, Marchese Capece DiBugnano, a resident of Rome, Italy, and a senator of the Italian government, told Wolves club members that he preferred to remain reticent, Tuesday evening in The Castleton.

"I do not like to comment about the warring nations abroad for fear of being misquoted. But there's one thing, Italy is not at war." The Italian dignitary marvelled at the local hotel and city.

One of the highlights of the meeting was an address by the Rev. Fr. Joseph Doerr, pastor of St. Joseph's church, who spoke on, "The History and Work of the Red Cross." Rev. Doerr pointed out that the Red Cross is just as helpful during peace time as well as during war time. His talk was thoroughly enjoyed.

Dr. James Brunetti, of Pittsburgh, and Senator DiBugnano, who is visiting in America, were special guests.

Dr. A. M. Perifano, president, presided.

State Will Seek To Aid Upswing

Secretary Of Commerce Brown Heads Move—Plans Are Announced

PRESENT "BOOM" BEGAN LAST MAY

By TOM R. BRISLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 8.—A campaign to insure the "permanency" of the current industrial upswing was launched by department of commerce officials today without apparent concern over the prospect for war orders.

Secretary of Commerce Richard P. Brown claimed he did not know of a single order placed with Pennsylvania industry for war materials. Lifting of the arms embargo, he indicated, would not mean an immediate rush for supplies by European nations.

Began In May

Brown said that his department was seeking means to check a threatened business recession in the event the war ends soon, and emphasized that the present mild boom began last May rather than at the outbreak of war in September.

Several hundred thousand Pennsylvanians, Brown said, have been placed in employment since the boom period began last spring. He added:

"Increased production and increase employment in Pennsylvania began months before the war started, and while modification of the neutrality law eventually may increase this trend, foreign war orders have not yet been responsible for Pennsylvania's pickup."

Seek Permanent Upswing

He stressed the importance of a "permanent" business upswing and not a temporary revival directly caused by the war. Brown expressed the hope that only a "relatively small proportion of Pennsylvania's total production will go to foreign governments for war purposes."

Such hope, Brown pointed out, was based on a desire to "avoid as far as possible any slump after the European war ends."

"The permanency of industrial and business prosperity for Pennsylvania in comparison with other states is the aim of this department," Brown declared, "and all its efforts are being devoted to that end."

Whatever war orders come to Pennsylvania, Brown said, will be "taken in stride" without undue concern. Establishment of a "permanent recovery" is of more immediate concern, he indicated.

Steel and textiles will share in most of the war orders coming to the state, Brown said. For the most part, airplanes, trucks, tanks, machine tools, foodstuffs, and meats will be supplied by states other than Pennsylvania.

Brown's statement was occasioned by passage of the new neutrality bill expected by the Roosevelt administration to launch a billion-dollar war-business boom, at the same time eliminating a million tons of American shipping from steamer lanes leading to France, England, Germany, and other nations in the war area.

"Pennsylvania has been improving industrially," Brown said, "because of a general return of confidence on the part of business and not because of any war orders from foreign governments.

"A revival of industrial activity began last spring . . . and had hit a fast stride in Pennsylvania before war began in Europe."

Government Will Aid State With Guard Training

Allocates $220,553 To Help Pay For Field Training Recently Ordered

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 8.—The federal government has allocated to the state of Pennsylvania $220,553 to pay for the additional seven-day field training period ordered by the War department for the national guard as part of the nation's increased defense program.

At a meeting of Major General Edward Martin, adjutant general of Pennsylvania, with the commanding officers of all brigades and regiments and members of the 28th division staff, it was decided that unlike the summer field training, troops during this period would be housed in available barracks, armories or public buildings, as no funds for rentals are available.

The training will consist of scouting and patrolling; night operations; marches and march discipline; security and reconnaissance; field firing problems and concealment in positions and bivouacs.

All training will be under the supervision of the instructors from the regular army and staff officers of the nation guard who will visit the troops during their training periods in Bivouac and in barracks for purposes of co-ordination and inspection.
